New signs go up

New school crosswalk signs have been put up at Sikeston Public Schools. Jack Cothern, principal at Southwest Elementary School, right, points out areas to watch for motorist when children are in the crosswalk to one of the safety patrol students, Mike Ellison. The signs are the new standardized type, using symbols to give motorist a visual interpretation of the warning. Other signs are placed a short distance preceding the crosswalk to forewarn drivers of the approaching crosswalk. (Daily Standard Photo)

Laos cease-fire, pullout expected soon: Rogers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today the United States expects a Laos cease-fire soon and a withdrawal of all foreign forces from that country.

By U.S. estimate, some 60,000 North Vietnamese troops are in Laos, which has been a prime transit route for North Vietnamese forces heading to neighboring South Vietnam.

Testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Rogers also got clear notice from Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., to go slow on pushing postwar U.S. reconstruction aid for North Vietnam.

Rogers said that the Nixon administration has not yet made any commitment for A nerican economic help to Hanoi although he said it would be "an investment in peace" when supplied.

The secretary of state said other countries are considering providing postwar rebuilding assistance to Indochina too, and whatever U.S. aid money is involved "would be subject to congressional approval."

Morgan noted there has been criticism from various quarters about going too fast with postwar aid to North Vietnam.

"I am glad to have your assurance that you are going to move slow in that area," the committee head told Rogers.

The secretary of state gave the House group a generally optimistic account of how the Vietnam peace is working out.

"So far developments certainly support our expectations that the agreement will work ... and that peace with honor is being achieved," he testified.

Rogers told the House

Charges expected in shooting death

Jimmy Kaiser, 34, of 203 Selma was to be charged with first degree murder today in connection with the shooting death Wednesday of 24- year- old Carol Alvarez. Charges had been drawn up this morning and were expected to be filed this afternoon, according to Magistrate Court Judge Lloyd Briggs.

Miss Alvarez, who reportedly had been living with Kaiser, on and off for sometime, was pronounced dead of a bullet wound in the head at 11:40 a.m. Wednesday upon arrival at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Kaiser, who brought Miss Alvarez to the hospital, was taken into custody by sheriff's deputies and jailed overnight at Benton.

Viet mail policy to change

Only letter mail will move beyond San Francisco. Personal letter mail to Vietnam military post offices must be mailed prior to March 1, or delivery prior to the discontinuance of the Vietnam military post offices cannot be assured, according to Don Pasaka, Sikeston postmaster.

Military personnel involved in the address change will advise correspondents and mailers of their new address when and as appropriate, the Department of Defense reported.

Two suspects bound over

DONIPHAN, Mo. (AP)—The second man charged with murder in the January slaying of the Grandin, Mo., bank president and two members of his family was bound over for trial today on three counts of first degree murder.

Testimony at Cowin's preliminary hearing today paralleled that offered Wednesday at a hearing for Jerry Wayne Rector, 22, of Van Buren, who was also bound over for trial on three counts of murder.

A lawyer for Cowin asked the judge if bond could be set for his client. Dodd set Cowin's bond at a total of $300,000 on the three counts.

No hearing date has been set for Dallas R. Delay, 33, of Valle Mines, a third man charged in the slayings of Robert R. Kitterman, 43; his wife, Bertha, 38, and his daughter, Roberta.

The bodies of the Kittermans were found bound to trees shortly after he had taken $10,850 from the Bank of Grandin to pay extortionists for their abductions. Each had been shot in the head.

itnesses produced during Rector's preliminary hearing included Lt. F.A. Findley of the Highway Patrol, who testified concerning a statement given him by Rector.

Findley said Rector told of leaving Grandin in a truck after Cowin and Delay were let out near the Kitterman home the day of the slayings.

The state patrol officer quoted Rector as saying he had returned in the truck to a meeting spot and was turning the vehicle around when he heard three shots.

A short time later the three men drove in the truck from the spot where the bodies were found, Findley quoted Rector as saying.

Three other highway patrolmen, an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and John R. Standard of the Poplar Bluff American-Republic were other Wednesday witnesses.

Abductor eludes police dragnet

A man who abducted a Sikeston woman at gunpoint Wednesday from the Kingsway Plaza Mall parking lot has apparently eluded a police dragnet throughout the Bootheel.

The man was described as a white male in his middle 20s with long black hair, a beard and mustache. A man matching that description was reported last seen near the Missouri - Arkansas state line.

He is wanted for kidnaping 21- year - old Phyllis Trucks, who lives at 508S. New Madrid St.She was abducted about 9 a.m. as she arrived outside J. C. Penney Co. where she is employed.

Miss Trucks told police that she did not know the man and that he did not harm her or make any threatening statements.

He forced her to drive him in her pickup truck to an outer road near Cross's Truck Stop at the Interstate 55 interchange near New Madrid where he got out and fled on foot into a nearby field.

Miss Trucks then drove to the truck stop and reported the incident to police.

Sikeston police were taking statements from her late this morning.

The New Madrid sheriff's department reported today no new clues or developments have been uncovered in the search for the man. It is believed that he is probably out of the state.

Much of state government runs self, says Bond assistant

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — "Much of state government runs itself" under present laws, says Charles Valier, former state representative who now is Gov. Christopher S. Bond's legislative assistant.

Valier outlined the governor's position for the House Committee on Reorganization Wednesday night. It was the second hearing session on a 27-page House bill to implement reorganization approved by the voters last August.

A 540-page Senate version is being rewritten into less than 200 pages.

Administrative agencies serving similar functions should be placed in the same department, Valier said.

He said directors of the proposed 13 departments and the Office of Administration should be given complete budgetary and personnel control of their departments. If that is accomplished, he said, the governor as chief executive can effectively administer state government.

Valier has been in a storm of controversy this week as the result of a memo sent out by the governor's office saying all agency heads were to clear their testimony with Valier before they give it to legislative committees.

Valier came up before a Senate appointments committee for confirmation as a trustee of the state employes' retirement system Wednesday, giving the senators a chance to probe him about the wayward memo.

The Senate voted 28-4 and the house, 120-40 to send a protest resolution to the governor after the memo was circulated.

Valier said he did not send out the memo and has told all agency heads they are free to testify before giving a memo to him. He said the controversy was caused by "miscommunication" and that the governor's office did not intend to interfere with the legislature's authority.

What upset lawmakers the most was that two agencies exclusively under control of the legislature—the permanent committees on research and fiscal affairs—also received copies of the memo.

Valier said they were not on the distribution list.

In today's action the Senate received a bill, sponsored by freshman Sen. Larry Marshall, R-Columbia, to repeal all the Sunday sales laws to allow sale of items other than food and drugs.

Three senators also introduced a bill to allow the Office of Administration to make grants from federal revenue sharing money to local governments to aid in formation of public water supply districts.

A similar bill was introduced in the House by Rep. Lloyd J. Baker, D-Moberly.

Also in the Senate today a bill setting a minimum annual salary for probation and parole officers at $9,000 was approved for final consideration. The sponsor, Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said it costs the state only 72 cents a day to keep a prisoner on parole compared with $6.44 a day to keep him in prison.

The House today approved for final consideration a bill to give probationary teachers protection in cases of being terminated.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Wayne Goode, D-Normandy, provides that probationary teachers shall receive prior notice of deficiencies and have 90 days to correct them. Upon failure to do so, written reasons of the termination shall be required.

The Senate also approved the appointment of Valier and three other gubernatorial appointees.

The Senate was expected to act today on the appointment of Valier and three other persons.

Elena Jungmeyer, 26, a Lohman housewife and a Republican, was named to head the Department of Public Health and Welfare. Bond wants to phase out the director's duties as part of his reorganization plan, but Mrs. Jungmeyer still would supervise 4,500 employes. She succeeds Austin Hill, who resigned.

William Kostman, 34, former vice president of Commerce Bacshares in Kansas City and St. Louis, was named to succeed H. Duane Pemberton, who resigned as Commissioner of Finance. Kostman is a Republican.

Two appointments to the Highway Commission were approved.

Daniel Duncan, 44, president of a sawmill and lumber company at St. Joseph, was named to succeed Jack E. Stapleton Sr., of Stanberry; and former state Senator Jack S. Curtis was appointed to replace Rufus E. Mayes.

Still alive for a second go round is a bill by Sen. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, to increase the allowable truck weight limits on Missouri highways other than federal interstates.

The bill, termed by Sen. Edward T. Linehan, D-St. Louis, as a "highway buster," was defeated 14-14, a tie vote, Tuesday. But because of the tie vote, it was alive for reconsideration.

The Senate voted 19-9 Wednesday for reconsideration and Young promptly put the bill on the

That day of turmoil is almost here. VANISHING AMERICANS -- US

At the present rate of birth, the nation will achieve ZPG — zero population growth — in about the year 2040, with a stabilized population of some 320 million Americans.

It could come sooner, for according to the latest federal statistics, the rate has dropped to 2.08 children per family (replacement level is 2.1) and there are indications it may drop further.

But the two-child family is too little and too late, warns a new group called Negative Population Growth, Inc. Only the one-child family, it declares, can save us from our environmental crisis.

To retain "a decent quality of national life," says NPG, the U. S. population must be stabilized not at 320 million but at no more than half its present level. That would be about 100 million.

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments by the Pavement Plato:

Do you ever stop to think how much of your life is spent in performing rituals?

Rituals are the little habits of conduct by which we meet the common occurences of our existence. They govern us from dawn to dawn, from Monday through Sunday. They are helpful because they tell us what to do in most situations, but sometimes they also bore us half to death.

They become too patterned, too chorelike, and at times we yearn to break out of the confinement of rituals and do something wild, free and mildly insane. And, of course, at times most of us do.

Here are a few commonplace rituals:

Brushing your teeth.

Spraying something in your armpits so you won't smell like nature meant you to.

Saying something nice about the hero of the occasion at a funeral, when your private opinion is that the world would have been better off if he had died ten years before.

Picking up bar and restaurant checks for liberated women.

Congratulating the pastor of your church on Sunday on the powerful sermon he preached that you never really listened to.

Going to functions where they have after dinner speeches.

Going to cocktail parties where everybody is either too clever or too pontifical.

Telling our innocent little children how they must behave if they want to grow up and be safe and happy — like us.

So we wear out our lives, from birth to the tomb, performing this little ritual...that little ritual. What would happen if for a single day every person in the world ceased to go through any of his usual rituals whatsoever?

That's easy. We'd all be thrown in jail before nightfall. Without rituals, people get into nothing but trouble.

He also supplies a deed for each inch and all 50 deeds take up about 32 square feet on an office or den wall. If he sells them all, he stands to take in $87 million or about $1,740,000 per acre.

CAPITALIST ACHIEVEMENTS

A 95-year- old former lawyer and lecturer, Mr. Frank Branch Riley, made a statement on fundamental principles to a group of Oregon businessmen, a short time ago, that deserves repeating. In answer to those who scorn profit, he says, "The guy who saves something out of his weekly wages is a capitalist. He owns a car or an extra suit of clothes, a savings account ... Joe Doak, if he is thrifty ... can share in the products of almost any American enterprise ... Our system is not perfect ... but ... we have achieved a standard of living, a distribution of wealth to the masses of our citizens, the like of which has never been known in any other country, in any other government, under any other flag since the dawn of civilization on this planet."

As has been pointed out by a great many shrewd observers, if every wish or demand of antiestablishment extremists were granted, new demands would soon be invented. Their idea of utopia is anarchism. In the final analysis, their philosophy is acceptable to no nation -- capitalist, communist or socialist.

What's the score on enzymes in laundering products? Are they safe or not?

They have been cleared as safe. On April 14, 1972 the Federal Trade Commission announced that it has closed its investigation of possible health hazards associated with the use of enzymes in household detergents. The action was based on its view that currently available evidence of a health hazard is insufficient to warrant any action at the present time and follows the report of the National Academy of Sciences / National Research Council on enzyme- containing laundering compounds and consumer health that was issued November 17, 1971.

RECOGNITION OF PRIVATE INITIATIVE

Whether the United States has enough electric power to meet the huge energy demands of the future depends, to a great extent, upon public willingness to accept needed power plants as part of the environment and upon government policies that will encourage investors and utility managements to get on with the job of building power capacity. For some years, under the euphemism of reliability, advocates of government management of the electric industry have pushed for federal control over the industry amounting to an ultimate federal takeover of the electric power business from generator to consumer. Such federal control of the industry would simply lead to procedural red tape and bureaucratic inertia that would remove all hope of orderly, flexible planning to keep abreast of energy requirements.

Fortunately for the nation, a philosophy of preserving private initiative appears to be prevailing, so far as government policy is concerned. Evidence of this appeared at a hearing before the Senate Appropriations Independent Offices Subcommittee where Senator John O. Pastore said utilities should develop their own reliability "because the question of reliability is understood" by them. He added that utilities are as distributed as anyone else over possible power shortages. Another witness at the hearing, Chairman of the Federal Power Commission, Mr. John Nassikas agreed with the Senator and said the trouble with reliability legislation is that it is aimed at control of the industry – "nationalization, if you please."

These two public officials have a great deal to say about what kind of regulatory policies the electric industry must live under. Such frank recognition by them that a regulatory take-over of the industry is neither necessary nor desirable signifies confidence in the all-important principle of maximum encouragement of private initiative. Private initiative has been the source of abundant electric energy in the past and will continue to be so in the future.

Redistribution Is Not The Answer

Those who advocate wholesale changes in the tax structure to place heavier burdens on business and middle income and wealthy taxpayers ignore economic realities.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, has said that, "We've got to create 30,000 new jobs every week just to break even." The so-called "tax reform" movement has not attempted to answer the question where the 30,000 necessary new jobs every week are coming from, or what would happen to work incentives, the market process and standards of living in general if a forced large- scale income redistribution is made through the tax system.

What would massive income redistribution do to the production process and incentives to work and invest? We believe this is an eminently fair question to which Congress should address itself before revamping taxes.

If we are to improve the well-being of the people about whom the reformers are most concerned, then tax policies should encourage job-creating, private sector investment and, indeed, should go further in such encouragement. However else are we going to continue to pay wage scales so far above everyone else in the industrialized world?

Constructive citizens of Republic USA will wish to be alert to counter any moves by enemies of Freedom to knuckle under to Soviet meddling in the Panama Canal area. The Soviet Russians are rewarding U.S. efforts to save them from starvation by financing and advising terrorists trying to take over or sabotage the strategic Panama Canal.

Panama's anti- American strongman, Omar Torrijos, and his communist advisers have maneuvered a meeting of the United Nations Security Council in Panama City, with the idea of embarrassing the United States through demonstrations, riots and sabotage. Some intelligence agencies think that Torrijos may even try to seize the Canal.

Disruptive protests are being organized by Manuel Pineior, Cuban communist dictator Castro's chief for overscas intelligence operations. Pineior went with Castro to Moscow recently and Castro is funneling arms and money to the communist leaders and sympathizers who will direct the mobs.

The U.N. Security Council meeting in March will have the Panama representative taking his turn as presiding officer, so he will be able to control the agenda and make sure that an explosive situation exists. Although Cuba is not a member of the Security Council, Castro is sending several officials to the meetings as "observers." Soviet Russia would love to control the Panama Canal through a communist stooge government in Panama. It is vital that good citizens of Republic USA crusade to prevent a communist take- over of the U.S.- built Canal. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON— Some of my best friends, entrusted with de facto power to decide what your pay increases and price rises will be in Phase Three, have been pledged to secrecy by that cultured economic Godfather, Prof. John Dunlop, the nation's one- man cost of living (COLC) czar.

Sort of a respectable Omerta. Discussions and decisions of the COLC's Labor-Management Advisory Committee are being made in supreme secrecy despite the intense effect these will have on every household, every worker, every businessman.

One committee chap said, "Dunlop would slash our wrists and other parts of our anatomy if we talked." Well, it wasn't very difficult for one bred in a city room to learn what was discussed and decided. But the most significant point is that the fate of the nation's wage and price negotiations, until the current controls are lost in future Ph.D. theses, are in one man's hands-- John Dunlop's, Director of the Cost of Living Council.

First, he has the power to clobber or to approve thousands of contracts, new sections of old ones and new agreements throughout the next few months at least.

That power has been given to him by Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz who told me recently: "We're not spoiling for a fight but there is a complete willingness to take the stick out of the closet. There is no doubt. No one should have any doubt about it. We intend to make Phase Three work. We will clobber when needed...We are not just talking."

Shultz said this privately so he means it, though he has said some of it publicly-- which isn't always prologue to action in crises.

But what's the clobber point? Well, here we come to the second secret meeting of the Labor- Management Advisory Committee Wednesday, Jan. 31. This ran from 11 a.m. in the Treasury Dept.'s special Conference Room to 4:30 p.m.

First it was agreed among the 10 labor leaders and businessmen -- chaired by Dunlop -- that there would not be decisions by votes but by consensus.

It was generally understood that the 5.5 per cent wage increase (per year) guidelines would not be rigid in many negotiations.

There was hard talk. Some of the businessmen, including a banker, had never run into the earthiness of Seafarer's chief Paul Hall, the razorblade lines of laconic AFL-CIO second-in-command Lane Kirkland (sitting in for George Meany now in Florida preparing for the high command session), the Fabian working- class approach of Auto Union chief Leonard Woodcock, or the bluntness of Teamsters' president Frank Fitzsimmons.

They left no doubt that 5.5 would not be satisfactory in the big contract negotiations upcoming, be it with General Electric, the trucking industry or with the Big Three car manufacturers. There would have to be more. In effect, Dunlop indicated it would be handled.

There was considerable discussion of the $95 million Phase Two machinery. What now happens to the 3,000 negotiated and signed labor-management contracts backlogged at the old Pay Board?

Most observers have overlooked this crisis. The question is: Are Pay Board decisions on the final "control year" of a contract, decisions made last year, still binding after Jan. 11 when President Nixon launched Phase Three?

And what about decisions which cut back wage hikes won last year? No one should make light of this --- least of all John Dunlop. Recently he has lived in the world of the construction trades. He should get into the U.S. Shuttling between the Labor Dept. and Harvard flies him right over America.

There are angry New York hospital workers, led by left-wing, bearded Leon Davis, president of the activist Drug and Hospital Workers Union Local 1199. They had their pay agreement cut by the Pay Board Jan. 25. Now Davis is saying, "If these courts (to which the union has appealed -- V.R.) don't get us what we have rightly won, then we will take such other steps as are necessary. One thing must be clear. Our members are determined to get what's due them – no matter what it takes." And it could well take a city-wide hospital strike.

Then there is thee West Coast militant Longshoremen's Union led by Harry Bridges. They want back the 30 cents an hour slashed from their contract last year which caused Meany and company to walk off the Pay Board. And the 1,600 Northwest Airlines pilots and 10,300 Machinists working for Eastern Airlines were cut back Jan. 31. They want their money.

And there are 3,000 contracts signed by unions, most of whose leaders say they're not bound by the Pay Board to which Mr. Nixon said goodbye Monday morning. This could cause the big post - Phase Two pay "bubble" most economists are worried about and the ballooning of inflation.

So the secret Wednesday, Jan. 31 Labor - Management Advisory Committee session appointed a six-man task force of bright young technicians to come in with a report. The boards will meet again during the AFL-CIO Executive Council session in Bal Harbour, Fla., probably Feb. 23.

And Prof. Dunlop will be in the chair. He's a very bright fellow but secrecy will get him no place. The whole thing could balloon up in his erudite face. Inflation too. And a tough rank and file, very literate now. It read and it wants to know what decisions are being made in their name.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: For Our Man in Nicaragua, Quake Was Pain in the Neck

WASHINGTON — For the homeless victims, the Nicaraguan earthquake was a terrible catastrophe. But for U. S. Ambassador Turner Shelton and his wife, Lesly, it was a terrible inconvenience.

Not only did U. S. rescue workers swarm down upon them, but some tried to enter the ambassador's massive official residence. The ambassador and his lady would have none of this.

All U. S. employes assigned to the relief effort had to stay in tents pitched outside and were not permitted even to use the downstairs bathrooms in the residence. Only after bigwigs from Washington arrived on the scene was this rule relaxed.

One rescue worker told us Mrs. Shelton's greatest concern after the earthquake was the trauma it caused her beautiful Persian cats. She called the presidiential palace, said this source, to request a veterinarian to administer to her pets.

Other rescue workers remembered the cats but had no knowledge of the appeal for a veterinarian. But they had a clear recollection of Mrs. Shelton's annoyance over the rescue operations.

IMPERIAL PRIVACY

When one official went into the library of the residence to place a phone call to the State Department, he found Mrs. Shelton outraged that her imperial privacy was being violated. "I would like to sit in my own house and talk to someone without being interrupted," she huffed.

She was equally incensed when the same official, visiting the ambassador on official business, put his briefcase on a chair. "Would you kindly remove your stachel from the furniture?" she snorted.

Another higher official, who arrived on the scene later, said the party was given access to the residence. He found Mrs. Shelton "quite cordial." She even showed them her favorite cat, he said. By this time, housing had also been found for many of the relief workers.

We made repeated attempts to reach the Sheltons for their comment but couldn't get through because of earthquake damage to the telephone system. John King, a State Department spokesman who was on the scene, conceded that while there had been "some bitching," it was caused by the confusion. "Everyone's nerves went," said King.

COFFEE CAPER

While other generals grapple with such problems as drug abuse and racial discord in the ranks, a commanding general at Ft. Belvoir, Va., is solemnly investigating the way the Army serves its coffee.

The Great Coffee Inquiry was ordered by Lt. Gen. John Norton, boss of the Army's Combat Development Command, after some of his soldiers complained that brewing coffee for their superiors each morning was degrading.

The general, being a man of action, turned his command upside down to check on the coffee complaints. Meetings were held, memos written and a survey conducted "to determine the extent of this problem."

Hundreds of "Coffee - Drinker / Coffee Maker" questionnaires were distributed, asking civilian and military employes whether they objected to making coffee for others.

Colonel Ed Cope is keeping the general's coffee investigation on the front burner. "We believe in getting at the bottom of things," he told us solemnly, "even if that means coffee pots."

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

SURE SHOT — A TV commercial shows basketball's unforgetable Bill Russell sinking a tough shot and commenting on behalf of the Bell system that you can't miss with long- distance calls. But as originally written, Russell was supposed to try the tough shot, bounce it off the hoop for a miss and comment: "I can miss, but you can't, with long distance." On the first shot, Russell tried to miss but sunk the basket. He made several more attempts but continued to drop them in. Finally, Bell's long-distance ad chief, Dan "Hutch" Hutchins, gave up on Russell and rewrote the script to show him dropping one for Mother Bell.

BUICK CONFESSION – An aggrieved Buick Electra owner, Harry Crawshaw of Grand Blanc, Mich., complained repeatedly to General Motors that his car, with less than 10,000 miles on it, was guzzling a quart of oil every 750 miles or so. In an admission that doesn't make its way into the ads, Buick Customer Service Supervisor W. A. Roeske finally told him, "one might expect to use up to one quart in 750 miles." This, wrote Roeske, may be "entirely normal ... We hope you understand our position." Crawshaw tells us he is impressed with Buick's belated frankness, but wishes he'd been told about it before he bought the car.

LAND SWAP -- The U. S. Forest Service is caught in an ecological bind that may force it to trade 7,600 acres of federal land for a tenth as much acreage in New Mexico's Gila National Wilderness. The owner of the wilderness land is rancher John Hamilton, Jr., who, according to Forest Service decuments, has threatened to turn it into subdivisions unless the swap goes through. This would endanger such rare species as the Mexican duck and would wreck the "solitude and integrity of the Gila Wilderness," says the documents. The Forest Service justifies the trade by saying the 7,600 government acres are good only for grazing. But persistent reports say there are copper and other minerals in the land, an extra bonus for the hard-trading rancher.

Senate votes to form special committee to check Watergate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rejecting Republican attempts to expand its focus, the Senate has voted to form a special committee to investigate the Watergate bugging incident and other allegations of GOP political espionage against Democrats in 1972.

The vote Wednesday was 77 to 0 after Republican senators failed to gain equal membership on the panel and to broaden its inquiry to include charges of Democratic misdeeds in the 1964 and 1968 campaigns.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who has been designated chairman, said the committee probably won't be ready to begin public hearings for a couple of months.

Members of the panel will be named by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler has pledged administration cooperation with any nonpartisan investigation. The White House was reported to favor an evenly divided committee.

Two former officials of President Nixon's re-election campaign were convicted by a U.S. District Court Jan. 30 of conspiracy, burglary and wiretapping in connection with the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate complex in Washington. Five other persons, including a former Nixon security man, pleaded guilty to similar charges early in the trial.

Democrats initiated the congressional probe, saying the trial failed to investigate the bugging, partly because the Nixon administration's Justice Department was reluctant to fully probe allegations that high-ranking White House officials approved the operation.

Debate on the resolution Wednesday often was acrimonious with Republicans accusing the Democrats of trying to stack the committee so they could conduct a partisan probe aimed solely at discrediting the GOP.

Earlier, Republicans lost two attempts by Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., to split the committee evenly with three Democrats and three Republicans, and another by Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., to extend the probe to include the 1964 and 1968 presidential campaigns. It finally was decided to boost the committee's membership from the original five to seven, but with Democrats still in the majority.

Stennis makes improvements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis was making satisfactory progress today, but his condition was still very serious and "the prognosis remains grave," hospital officials said.

Stennis, who was shot twice in a holdup last week, slept intermittently during the night, said a 7 a.m. EST statement from Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

Surgeons at Walter Reed Army Medical Center said they are concerned now about infection and the condition of the senator's pancreas and small intestine.

Members of Stennis' family and President Nixon visited Stennis Wednesday. The President said afterward, "I think he's going to make it."

A bill was introduced in the Mississippi Senate Wednesday to authorize a $50,000 reward for information leading to conviction of Stennis' assailants. Police have said they are looking for three male teen-agers in connection with the shooting.

Stennis is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

'Truth in elections' law introduced

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A "truth in elections" law was introduced in the Missouri Senate today by Sen. Ike Skelton, D-Lexington.

Under the bill, a candidate for statewide or county-wide office would be required to designate a treasurer for his campaign and no contributions could be received or expenditures made without going through the treasurer.

"The present campaign law does not do the job," Skelton said. "It is riddled with loopholes and the reports filed in compliance with the law are practically useless in determining the true picture as to what was actually contributed and spent in an election."

Skelton's proposal is similar to a Florida law which requires reports before and after an election, according to a statement by Skelton.

NEW YORK (AP) — Opera at the Forum has been announced for three weeks, Feb 19 to March 10, in the 282-seat Forum Theater in Lincoln Center which until recently has operated as an off-Broadway theater.

There will be 25 performances, alternating a double bill of Purcell's "Dido and Aeneas" and the American premiere of Maurice Ohana's "Syllabaire pour Phedre" with Virgil Thomson's "Four Saints in Three Acts."

4 treated

Four accident patients were treated Wednesday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Ann Landers

Staring may be only bad habit

Dear Ann Landers: I laughed when I read that letter from a man whose initials were P.B. He said your voice on the radio sounds like a grinder full of nails. His description was quite accurate but he didn't go far enough. I'll bet he has never seen you on TV. Are you aware that you talk out of the side of your mouth like a gangster? For the life of me I can't understand why a person who makes so many public appearances has never had speech lesssons.

I'll bet my bottom dollar this is ONE letter I will never see in the paper.--- Straighten Up And Talk Right

Dear Up: Speech lessons wouldn't help. My mouth is crooked. Please send that bottom dollar-- and any other loose buck you can lay your hands on-- to the American Cancer Society in New York. The address is: 219 East 42nd Street, New York, New York 10017. I cost the American Cancer Society $30,000 last year. That's what they had to spend on postage when I suggested in this column that women write for the free Self Breast Examination booklet. (P.S. The booklet is still available and every women between 20 and 70 should have one.)

Dear Ann Landers: Please don't ignore this letter because it sounds like a dumb crush that will blow over in a week. I need help.

This really groovy guy in my chemistry class is driving me out of my gourd. I first noticed him when I caught him staring at me. He never spoke a word-- just stared. I found out from kids who knew him that he has always been shy, so I decided to make the first move. I wrote a note and asked him if I reminded him of somebody. No reply. Just more staring.

I thought maybe he considered it a stupid question and I was ashamed of myself for writing that note so I heard his birthday was the following week, and I sent him a birthday card and wrote a few lines. No reply.

Yesterday I saw him staring at me again and decided to keep my eyeballs hooked into his until he looked away. Would you believe we stared at each other for a full 60 seconds? Finally, my eyes began to water and I had to turn away.

How can I find out his true feelings for me? Why would a guy stare at a girl for six months if he didn't dig her? Should I ask him or what? What should my next move be?--- Sick Of Games

Dear S.O.G.: You've already made two moves and the net result has been zero. My advice is to write him off. If he wants to get to know you he'll stop staring and start talking.

Dear Ann Landers: "Beantown Readers" is right. Some husbands think their wives should have a baby every year and I cheered when you trimmed the sails of those egomaniacal males who equate large families with virility.

I've had four children and six miscarriages in ten years. Every time my Romeo husband has an affair he decides I should have another baby to square himself with the Lord. How do you explain an inconsiderate, guilt- ridden nut like him?--- Fertile Myrtle

Dear F.M.: I don't have to explain him. You did. He is inconsiderate, guilt- ridden and nuts.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious-- lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key To Popularity." Send 35c in coing with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to this newspaper.

Jarvis heads Heart Fund business drive

Earl Jarvis, 18 Green Meadows, has been selected to head the 1973 business drive for the Heart Fund, according to Mrs. Robert Turnbull, community chairman.

Earl Jarvis

The theme of this year's campaign is "Beat the Big One-- Heart Attack". During the Sikeston Heart Fund Campaign this month, area firms will be asked to cooperate in the fight to reduce the toll of heart and blood vessel diseases and distribute heart- saving information in their personnel.

Jarvis is a past president of the Southeast Missouri Council of Boy Scouts of America and is a member of the board of directors of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

"Heart and blood vessel diseases this year will cost American business and industry about 52 million man-days of production," Jarvis said.

Brain dysfunctions family of problems

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Every child diagnosed as having minimal brain dysfunction is different and must be considered as an individual, according to Dr. John E. Peters, an Arkansas child psychiatrist.

Minimal brain dysfunction (MBD) is a family of diagnoses rather than a single entity, Dr. Peters recently told an audience of physicians in private practice. The three groups into which he divides the problem are the child with pure hyperactivity, the one with pure learning disability and the mixed types who have both.

Mixed and hyperactive children have in common short attention span, distractability and impulsivity. The two pure types are relatively few in number. The largest number of MBD children fall into the mixed category.

Dr. Peters is head of the division of child and adolescent psychiatry at the University of Arkansas school of medicine.

He said that most children are diagnosed as having MBD and their parents are seen at least initially by a physician in private practice.

"In every group of 100 school children, there are likely to be 5 to 10 who have a learning disability or are so hyperactive they require special help. The physician has an important role in helping to identify and manage these children to prevent psychiatric maladjustments and to increase the child's chances for a productive life," Dr. Peters said.

Unstable emotions, mercurial behavior, poor motor integration, space movement perception deficit and disorders in language processing are also characteristic of MBD children.

The seminar on diagnosis and management of the child with MBD was sponsored as part of a medical horizons program by CIBA Pharmaceutical Co.

Tradition still rules

TOKYO (AP) — Kiyoko Sato, 23, wasn't as happy as a bride-to-be should be as her wedding day approached. The reason: parental insistence that she and Keiichi Nakajima, her 24-year-old fiance, don formal kimono and go through a traditional Shinto wedding ceremony.

The young couple said all they wanted was a small, western style wedding with only a few of their close friends as guests, not a big "two-family" affair.

Although Kiyoko and Keiichi have been courting for five years, the fiance had to take his parents and a matchmaker to Kiyoko's home a few months ago to give her an engagement ring and 300,000 yen (about 1,000 dollars). Kiyoko termed that another compromise with old fashioned wedding ways.

Bunji Ioki, a marriage counsellor-researcher in Tokyo, said about 80 per cent of the one million couples expected to marry in Japan this year will have chosen their mates on the basis of their own feelings rather than through the old matchmaker system.

SHS matmen ready for regional

Grapplers representing at least three Southeast Missouri wrestling squads will travel to their respective state regional sites Friday to wrestle for top two berths in each weight division and earn the right to advance to state competition next weekend in Columbia.

Matmen from Cape Central and Sikeston will be attending the class 'L' regionals at Horton Watkins High School at Ladue of St. Louis while wrestlers from Ste. Genevieve, Dexter, and Jackson will be attending the class 'M-S' regionals at Maplewood high school in Maplewood of St. Louis.

Coach John Heacox' Sikeston High School crew will be sending four young men to Ladue by virtue of either third or fourth place finishes in district competition last weekend at Fox high school in Arnold.

Finishing third in district last weekend was freshman Scott Hutchison. Wrestling in the 112- pound division, Hutchison holds a 16-2 record at present and was voted the 'outstanding freshman wrestler' by squad members this week.

Fourth place finishers in districts last weekend were 105- pounder Tom Bridger, 119- pounder Jim Huff, and 132- pounder Bill Lewis.

Bridger held the distinction of being the Bulldogs' only undefeated matman in regular season competion. As a sophomore, Bridger has a 15-2 record, including district, and also has a two years of wrestling remaining under mentor Heacox.

Huff and Lewis, juniors at SHS, hold respective records of 9-5 and 15-4 going into this weekend's activities and, along with Coach Heacox, are already looking forward to next season very optimistically.

Cape Girardeau Central will send three representatives to Ladue this weekend. They are Rick East, wrestling in the 145-pound division; Ray Dowell, wrestling in the 155- pound division; and heavyweight Jerry Reubel. Both East and Dowell placed fourth in their respective divisions while Reubel finished second in his weight class.

Coach Paul Webber's Jackson Indians took seven individual titles and two other finishes to total nine grapplers that will be attending the class 'M-S' regional tournament at Maplewood Friday. They are 98- pounder L. G. Loos, 119-pounder Bruce Hoffman, 126- pounder John Wilson, 132- pounder David Ramsey, 138- pounder Rick Meyer, 145- pounder Clint Collier, 155-pounder James Welker, 167-pounder Bruce Winderknecht and heavyweight John Goodson.

Representatives from the Dexter Bearcats and Ste. Genevieve Dragons will alsc be attending the Maplewood affair, but names of the individual wrestlers were not available.

Kings take Bucks

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "A routine win," said Kings Manager Bob Cousy, tongue-incheek, of the Kansas CityOmaha 105-98 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks in a National Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

The last time the franchise notched a victory over Milwaukee was Dec. 19, 1970 in Cincinnati when it was called the Royals. "It seems like it has been since 1865," said Cousy.

Nate Archibald scored 39 points and had nine assists, Sam Lacey tallied 18 points and 12 rebounds and Johnny Green supplied the spark late in the game before the largest professional basketball crowd in Kansas City — 10,242.

Green "will give you the dry heaves then he'll jump 18 feet for a rebound and steal the ball," said Cousy of the 39year-old veteran from Michigan State who has been in the NBA 13 years.

With just under eight minutes left in the game Green blocked a shotand Matt Coukas made the save. Green streaked down the court and stuffed the ball through the hoop. The basket gave the Kiggs a 90-80 lead and brought the crowd to its feet.

Boston wins in overtime

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Havlicek came back Wednesday night and he couldn't have picked a more opportune time.

Havlicek, returning to action after missing two games because of an inflamed knee tendon, hit a turnaround jump shot with two seconds left in overtime to clinch a 103-102 victory for the Boston Celtics over the Los Angeles Lakers in a National Basketball Association contest.

Havlicek came through as the 24-second buzzer sounded after Boston had the ball with 26 seconds left and called time with nine seconds to go. The Lakers had closed to within a point as Gail Goodrich hit a jump shot and added a free throw with 26 seconds to go. The Celtics let Wilt Chamberlain score unimpeded as the buzzer sounded ending the game.

In other NBA action, Detroit beat Phoenxi 113-107, Baltimore crushed Atlanta 137-108 and Kansas City-Omaha upset Milwaukee 105-98. There were no games scheduled in the American Basketball Association.

Dave Cowens led the Celtics with 34 points, while Havlicek added 30. Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 35, followed by Jerry West with 26.

Elgin Hayes scored 28 points and grabbed 15 rebounds in leading the Baltimore Bullets over the Atlanta Hawks.

Phil Chenier added 27 points for the Bullets, who led by 37 points at one point in the fourth period.

The Detroit Pistons won their fifth straight game over the Phoenix Suns and it marked the first time in two years the Pistons had won more than three in a row.

Abernathy on waivers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ted Abernathy, submarine pitcher and oldest baseball player in the American League, has been placed on waivers for the purpose of unconditional release, the Kansas City Royals announced today.

Abernathy, who will be 40 next month, was the Royals' top right-handed relief pitcher most of the time in Kansas City but dropped off last season.

Abernathy "did an outstanding job," said Cedric Tallis, Royals general manager. "But at this point, we feel Ken Wright and some other younger pitchers are ready to move into the picture.

"We feel that making the move now, Abernathy will have a better chance of landing with another team," he said. "He is one of the finest individuals we have ever had."

Abernathy had a 16-13 record in two and a half years at Kansas City to boost his 14-year major league record to 62-69. His lifetime earned run average is 3.47.

Spartans drop one to Irish

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan State's basketball team spent a week in South Bend Wednesday night.

At least it must have seemed that way after a long, long night with Notre Dame.

"We played a horrible game," said Michigan State Coach Gus Ganakas after dropping an 85-72 decision to the Fighting Irish. "As the second half wore on, we became more disorganized and they got stronger through organization."

The "organization" to which Ganakas referred was Notre Dame's tough zone defense. It no doubt looked like the Twilight Zone to Michigan State's lost Spartans.

"Our zone at the end of the game won it for us," said Notre Dame Coach Dick "Digger" Phelps. "When we started to stall with about three minutes to play, we were up by six points. And after that, we just pulled away."

In other games Wednesday night, No. 3 Long Beach State walloped San Diego State 97-76; 12th-ranked Providence defeated St. Joseph's, Pa., 81-75 and No. 17 San Francisco beat Santa Clara 78-69.

Michigan State had a 35-34 lead over Notre Dame at the half, but buckled under a second-half assault led by the Fighting Irish's Gary Novak. He scored 18 of his 24 points in the last stanza.

Nate Stephens scored 24 points for a season high and Ed Ratleff fired in 23 to pace Long Beach's victory; Providence won behind Ernie DiGregorio's 26 points and San Francisco walloped Santa Clara as Phil Smith and Mike Quick each scored 19 points.

Elsewhere, Fairfield beat St. Bonaventure 72-60; Penn State turned back Temple 64-49; Sam Houston State, the nation's No. 1-ranked college division team, topped fourth-ranked Stephen F. Austin 81-67; West Virginia nipped Rutgers 71-68; Marshall defeated Miami 68-59; LaSalle blasted Canisius 97-85. Kent State trimmed Pitt 74-68 and Duke smashed Wake Foresst 84-71.

Olympics plan shakeup

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Arthur Lentz, $30,000-a-year executive director, is slated to be the main victim of a shakeup this weekend in the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The former University of Wisconsin publicist, administrative head of the USOC since 1966, will be replaced by his present assistant director, Col. Don Miller, a source close to the situation told the Associateed Press today.

Philip O. Krumm, the incoming president, declined to discuss the report other than to say: "There will be some important changes in our organization—yes, they will affect Olympic House. But I can't reveal them for a couple of days."

Around 150 delegates poured into this fashionable winter resort today to attempt to regrid America's greatest amateur sports body, already deserted by major colleges and under heavy fire from Congress and a militant, college-backed group known as The Committee for a Better Olympics.

Missing were delegates from the powerful National Collegiate Athletic Association and 37 individual conferences, making a total absentee list of about 125. The NCAA withdrew its support shortly before the ill-starred Munich Olympics, calling for a complete overhaul of the USOC structure.

Lentz, who could not be reached immediately for comment, reportedly had hoped for a four-year renewal of his contract, which has another year to run.

If Lentz goes, so may other top administrative officials, excepting Col. Miller.

Prior to today's meeting, at which he will officially take office, Krumm made it plain that he planned broad and decisive measures intended to restore the USOC's tattered image.

"We will study all the criticisms and examine them one by one," he added. "We will bring outstanding athletes—old stars and present ones—into our policy making. We intend to rectify whatever mistakes we have made in the past."

One of the main criticisms has been that the USOC is run by a group of self-perpetuating "old fogeys" with small regard for the welfare of the athletes.

Nicklans shoots 64

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus said the putting greens were rough, joking, "I couldn't hardly get a thing in."

He smiled broadly as he told how close he came to losing his ball in the rough.

Despite such "misfortune," professional golf's premier performer blistered the Indian Wells Country Club course Wednesday with a first-round 64—eight under par—in the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Two strokes behind were veteran Gay Brewer and two tour non-winners, Bob Barbarossa and George Johnson. Another stroke back at 67 were Charles Coody, the 1971 Masters champion, Canadian Ben Kern and two-year pro Dwight Nevil.

The newly planted, frostburned greens at Indian Wells were "probably the roughest" of any in this four-course, 90-hole marathon in which pros team with amateurs for the first 72 holes, Nicklaus said.

Yet the Golden Bear from Columbus, Ohio, required only 28 putts, three of them from 30 feet for a lone bogey. He had an eagle three on the 468-yard 14th hole with a 25-foot putt.

On the 18th tee, his shot went to the right into foot-high rye grass.

He used a seven iron to escape the rough and parred the hole.

Sam Houston State No. 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sam Houston State remains No. 1 in the Associated Press College Division poll and the distinction is driving their fans into a frenzy.

The Bearkats, winners of 17 games this season through last Saturday and 23 in a row over a two-season span, easily outdistanced runner-up Augustana, Ill., accumulating 13 of 15 firstplace votes and 278 points.

Coach Archie Porter of Sam Houston State is a happy man. "We're delighted to be the top dog. I think the top rating has helped our confidence".

Augustana, 18-1, received one first-place vote in the voting by a national panel of sports broadcasters and writers, and advanced from third place to second with 222 points.

Stepehen F. Austin, 18-2, garnered the other No. 1 vote and climbed from fourth to third with 206 points.

Assumption, Mass., 13-1, jumped two places to fourth. Philadelphia Textile, 17-1, leaped from 10th to fifth. Roanoke, 14-4, advanced one position to sixth. Louisiana Tech, 15-3, dropped two spots to seventh. Wisconsin-Eau Claire, 13-3, plunged six places to eighth. Kentucky State, 15-3, held ninth, and Wisconsin-Milwaukee, 16-3, slipped from eighth to tenth.

Boxing principal flunks

MIAMI (AP) — Dr. Von N. Beebe, a grade school principal who wanted to see what it was like to be hit, has flunked his first Golden Gloves boxing test.

"I smelled the sweat and felt what it was like, so I have no regrets," said the 32-year-old Beebe through a bleeding lip. "It was an experience, believe me. But I learned something."

Beebe, principal of Leroy D. Fienberg Elementary School of Miami Beach, suffered a pounding and then lost on a second-round technical knockout to Ken Ryals in the 160-pound, subnovice class (five bouts or less) of the Florida Golden Gloves tournament Wednesday night. It was Beebe's first bout.

Ryals caught the long-haired Beebe with a short left seconds after the start of the match, sending the educator sprawling on the seat of his red trunks.

"The other guy was better. He knew how to hit, and I couldn't protect myself. I was getting hit because my hands were too low," the former Bronxville, N.Y., man said.

But Beebe said he felt he succeeded because "I got the taste of defeat and that's something .... You learn something."

Will Beebe continue boxing?

"Certainly, but I wouldn't want to do it all the time," he said. "I feel good and I have no regrets."

NEW YORK — Art MacNally, former National Football League referee and head of the National Football Conference officiating program since 1970, has been promoted to supervisor of officials for the entire league.

Advance Bs advance

ZALMA — The Zalma Invitational Basketball Tourney resumed action Wednesday night with Advance's B-team taking an expected win over St. Vincent 65-47 in the first game and Marquand upsetting Leopold 56-48.

The Advance B-team came into the game with a fourth-ranked seeding despite playing in varsity action. St. Vincent had trouble connecting with their shots and the Hornets held them to a mere four points, picking up the first quarter advantage with a 16-4 edge. Advance continued their shooting during the second quarter with St. Vincent coming off somewhat better, but the Hornets still held a decisive lead at half, 32-16.

In the third frame, St. Vincent could not pull within reach of the lead. Advance kept a steady pace and was able to hold off for a win.

Marquand, seeded fourth, pulled off an upset over third seeded Leopold, moving away from the Wildcats during the third frame to capture the win.

Action was slow during the start of the game. Both teams ran into cold shooting and could only manage six points apiece. By the second frame, both teams began hitting and Marquand slipped into the lead at half with a 21-19 edge.

Coming back from intermission, cold shooting once again plagued Leopold while Marquand was able to run up 16 markers. In the final quarter, the Wildcats hit for 21 points but the rally was not enough to come up with the win.

Dave Cox and Steve Masters led scoring for Marquand with 23 and 10 points respectively. David Nenninger was high man for Leopold with 15 markers and Mark Eftink pumped in 13.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's professional golfers have voted in favor of sticking with the American-style big ball and they want officials of the big European tournaments to do the same.

The pros decided by a vote of 115-88 to use the 1.68 inch ball, which has been used experimentally in Britain for five years. The old-style British ball was 1.64 inches in diameter.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

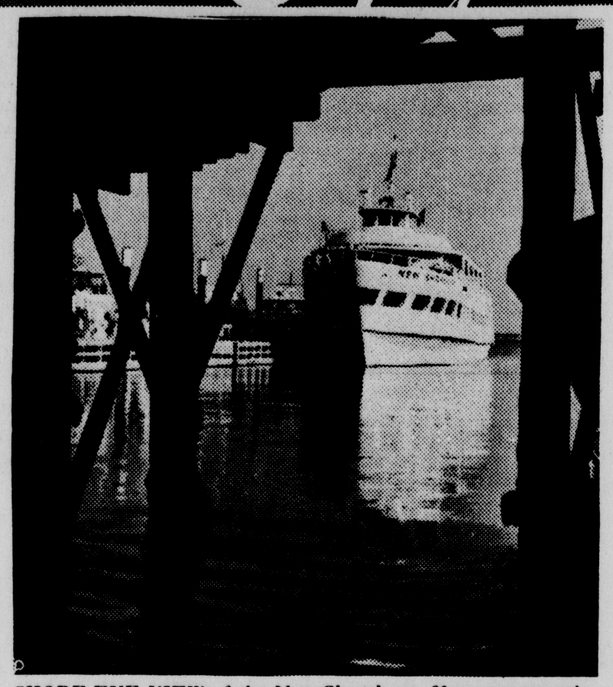
Looking over our photographic adventures of 1972, the trip that my wife and I took aboard the M/V (Motor Vessel) New Shoreham on the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterways from New York to St. Petersburg, Fla., comes to the forefront first.

That's because of the unique nature of the trip itself . . . the people we met . . . and it's the most recent one.

1. The cruise south along the inland waters of the Atlantic coast is leisurely enough — at 10 miles-per-hour — for close-up, waterside views of historic port cities and land steeped in the saga of our continent's beginnings and the heritage of our nation's formative years.

2. The trip seems to appeal to — and attract — interesting, friendly, adventurous people who value and appreciate an offbeat experience in good company and who don't mind the compact quarters of a small cabin.

3. Since it was our last trip of last year, its pictorial reminders are still at hand and very much in evidence.



SHORE-EYE VIEW of the New Shoreham, 60-passenger minicruise ship, is framed by pier timbers at Thunderbolt Marina, Ga. It's one of the pictorial memories of the two-week trip from Warren, R.I., on the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway which ended at St. Petersburg, Fla.

The New Shoreham, a 60-passenger minicruise ship, and its smaller sister vessel, the 42-passenger Mt. Hope, were designed and built by Capt. Luther Blount in their home port of Warren, R.I. They spend the summers on short cruises on the inland waters of the East Coast's northern area. About mid-November each year, they shift their base from North to South for the winter cruise season, using St. Petersburg as operating headquarters. In May, the call of the North is heard again and the two ships retrace their routes on the Intracoastal waters back to their Warren, R.I., home port.

But let's go back aboard the New Shoreham and the start of our two-week trip South. The ship, passengers and crew of 13 had started a day earlier when it sailed from its Warren dock. But eight passengers, including my wife and myself, found it more convenient to board in New York City. It was a cold rainy noontime when we found her at the Seaport Museum pier, a tiny craft alongside lower Manhattan's giant skyscrapers. With luggage aboard, picture taking started.

On any boat, a wide-angle and a telephoto lens are useful accessories for serious camera fans. With the wide-angle, you get more compact groups and scenes without backing off the boat while the tele lens will bring scenes, birds and activities closer and bigger when you can't go closer. A haze filter is handy to keep spray off the lens and a polaroid filter produces glare-free, sparkling water scenes.

If you have a compulsive trigger finger like mine — shooting away at every picture possibility — be sure to increase your film supply estimate. My "generous allowance" on this trip wasn't enough and, as I've often warned previously, there aren't any convenient camera stores along some travel routes. Fortunately, a shipmate friend was able to spare a roll of film toward the end of the trip to complete my black-and-white record in 2 1/4 x 2 1/4 size. Another camera making a 35mm slide story of our experiences was adequately supplied.

The voyage taught me a lot about our Eastern coastline. The Intracoastal Waterway is a long continuous string of rivers, sounds, lakes and bays connected by man-made canals. Together they form a system of sheltered inland channels for marine travel extending about 1,400 miles between Trenton, N.J., on the Delaware River, and Miami. As the nation's first "road," this water highway carried the people, merchandise, animals and tools that settled and developed the East Coast. Along the route, changes are barely discernible in some of the towns and many cities have preserved or rebuilt early relics and shrines with historical accuracy so that a trip down the waterway is often a trip backward in time.

The New Shoreham's scheduled stop each day, subject of course to the whims of weather, provided an opportunity for on-shore sight-seeing along the way. There is now space only for two examples of educational sightseeing and picture taking:

One of the first stops was at Annapolis and we were just a minutes-away walk from its center. It's a Colonial landmark city whose State House is the oldest state capitol in continuous legislative use and the site of the nation's first free school, King Williams, established in 1696. It has narrow streets with sidewalks of worn red bricks in herringbone pattern which once heard the tapping of gold-topped canes of Colonial governors. It is the home of U.S. Naval traditions and of two signers of the Declaration of Independence, William Paca and Charles Carroll. The latter is the only one to add his address on the historic document. In this city, too, the Treaty of Paris was signed which established the United States as a sovereign nation.

Toward the end of our trip, our stop at St. Augustine, Fla., left almost a whole day for sightseeing. A short stroll from the dock led to an old Spanish quarter whose narrow streets and quaint shops had Old World charm. An open auto-train, with stop-and-go privileges, took us to the historical area which has been preserved as the oldest continuous settlement in the U.S., founded by Spanish admiral Pedro de Aviles in 1565. We saw and photographed the oldest wooden schoolhouse and Castillo de San Marcos, the oldest masonry fort, begun by the Spanish in 1672.

These and other sights are the basis for this thought by the St. Augustine Historical Society: "History doesn't happen between the covers of books . . . it is merely recorded there. History happens to people — and it happens on the land. Seeing where history happened makes it more intimate and meaningful to us."

And when we photograph these sights, we are recording personal views of history for ourselves.

Other experiences of our trip South will follow in future columns.

Did you know that the tallest known races in the world are the Tutsi (also called Batutsi, Watutsi, or Watusi), Nilotic herdsmen of Rwanda and Burundi, Central Africa, and the Nuer of the White Nile region of the Sudan, whose males average over 5 feet 11 inches.

The world's smallest known race is the negrito Onge tribe of whom fewer than 500 survive on Little Andaman Island in the Indian Ocean. Few exceed 4 feet 6 inches. The smallest pygmies are the Bambuti, with an average height of 4 feet 8 inches for men and 4 feet 4 inches for women. They live in the forests near the river Ituri in the Congo (Leopoldville), Africa.

Size isn't everything. You can install a water refiner anywhere in your home in a space only 18 by 20 inches and it does the job of 4 other separate units. It clarifies, softens, filters and polishes, to give you and your family sparkling, clear, refreshing water. When you need a refining appliance, insist on the best, see us at

Spokesman says compulsory insurance will not work

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The House Insurance Committee heard testimony Wednesday night from insurance spokesmen who said compulsory auto insurance does not work and three bills to require it in Missouri should be defeated.

The bills are similar in requiring proof of auto insurance to obtain vehicle registration.

The committee also heard testimony on three bills to regulate health service plans in Missouri, primarily Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

Gus Lehr of MFA Insurance Co., said about 15 per cent of Missouri's 2.5 million licensed vehicles are uninsured, amounting to about 375,000 vehicles. He said in Massachusetts, New York and North Carolina, which have compulsory auto insurance, "it breaks down."

Lehr said some drivers drop thei insurance and the paperwork to keep tabs on coverage becomes burdensome. He said compulsory would increase rates.

But when questioned by the committee, he said costs for coverage to protect against uninsured motorists would decrease.

"It just doesn't work," said Henry Andrae, speaking for the American Insurance Association. He said legislators who think it will eliminate problems of uninsured motorists "ought to have their heads examined."

Andrae said the present system of having motorists pay for additional coverage to protect against uninsured drivers "is not an intolerable burden."

But the sponsor of one bill disagreed. Rep. William Raisch, R-Affton, said "the responsibilities for driving should be shared among all drivers," and that it is unfair to let some motorists off the hook on getting auto insurance and have others pay for their damages. He said he didn't believe insurance costs would raise because of compulsory insurance.

Raisch also said he did not believe his bill would fully eliminate uninsured motorists. But it would reduce the number by making them get insurance each time their license came up for renewal, while now they operate vehicles indefinitely without insurance coverage.

The committee deferred action on the bills until it can get more information, such as the estimated cost of administering such a program and how much damage is done by uninsured drivers.

"We've allowed this company (Blue Cross-Blue Shield) to grow so large we don't know what to do with them," said Rep. Harold Lowenstein, R-Kansas City, sponsor of one bill. "It wouldn't hurt anybody to make them open to public scrutiny."

Rep. James Muvaney, D-Jennings, sponsor of another bill, said "we need a strong law to protect the insurance-buying public. Where does the public go when they feel something is unjust."

A spokesman for the Blue Cross lan of St. Louis, attorney Robert Schlafly, said, "we are not opposed to regulation." He then gave the committee the company's own version of a regulation bill. He said more than 95 per cent of the income received by Blue Cross of St. Louis is paid out in benefits.

Takes amendment to drop stickers

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Rep. Larry Mead says the only way to eliminate the black sticker on paper ballots in Missouri is by a Constitutional Amendment.

Mead, a Republican from Columbia, said Wednesday after a House Election Committee meeting, he will introduce a joint House resolution next week to submit to the voters a Constitutional Amendment that would eliminate the black stickers.

The black path is used to cover up the number, to insure a voter's ballot will be kept secret. All but six of Missouri's 114 counties use paper ballots.

James F. Dowd III, general counsel for the Secretary of State, said the Constitution requires ballots be numbered and also requires they be secret.

Mead's resolution would eliminate the numbering so a black patch would not be needed.

Both Mead and Dowd said Missouri is the only state with the black patch requirement.

"The black patch becomes a red herring," Dowd said. "What they really want to eliminate is the numbering."

A bill co-sponsored by Mead and Rep. James R. Strong, R-Jefferson City, to eliminate them on mechanical ballots, was passed over for testimony in the committee hearing.

What's the Law?

The case of the sneak attack

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Pint- sized Peter got tired of having the "big boys" kick sand in his eyes at the beach and signed up for karate lessons at Tojo's Karate School. As it turned out, it was as perilous for Peter at the school as it had been at the beach. While dressing in the locker room after a lesson, Tojo caught him by surprise and gave him a chop across the chops.

Taking exception to the sneak attack, Peter sued Tojo for assault and battery.

"It was Parl Harbor all over agin," he told the judge. "I was a victim of a surprise attack."

In defense, Tojo explained:

"Karate students must expect rough treatment from their instructors. It's part of the course. Students must be on guard at all times."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Peter to collect for assault and battery because of the alleged sneak attack?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that Tojo's blow was struck after the karate instruction had terminated and had no reasonable connection with the lesson. What's more, speculated the judge, the unprovoked assault and battery seemed more of a personal act on the part of Tojo than an instructional one.

Helpers needed to aid Emergency Care Force

MALDEN — Lynn Lancaster, assistant director of the Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council, has issued a plea for anyone interested in helping with the Emergency Care Task Force.

According to Lancaster, the council is hoping to prepare a plan of action for the development of an effective community emergency health care system for the bootheel.

The business of medicine is to prevent premature death and disability, relieve suffering and provide comfort and reassurance to the ill and the injured, said Lancaster.

Anyone who accepts this premise should give high priority to the care of patients stricken with medical emergencies, whether they are disaster victims or those struck by a variety of daily health emergencies, he added.

The development of effective community emergency health care system is one of today's most neglected areas of medical care. The indifference is hard to understand since potential benefits are most promising in the fields of emergency medical care, said Lancaster.

When one tries to express the magnitude of the emergency health care problem, annual death rates offer the only reliable data. Meaningful statistics on disability related to emergency medical care are not available. There is a prime need now for data on all aspects of emergency health care, Lancaster said.

According to Lancaster, almost two million deaths from all causes occur each year in the United States. An estimated 60,000 of these deaths could have been prevented if rescue and resuscitation methods not known were applied early to these victims.

Thus, three per cent of our annual death rate can be labeled premature because emergency medical care during the first hour or so either is lacking or insufficient when it does arrive.

Strikers halt Penn Central

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Striking trainmen shut down the Penn Central Railroad today in a last-ditch bid to keep the nation's largest railroad from cutting train crews, a cornerstone of the bankrupt line's struggle for survival. The walkout affected thousands of daily passengers and posed a threat to major industry. The Senate Labor Committee called an emergency meeting in Washington, and a committee aide said there may be attempt to pass a resolution suspending the strike long enough for Congress to look at the strike issues. Both the Senate and House are scheduled to recess today for at least a week.

Talks between union and management representatives broke off last Friday, but they were scheduled to meet with Labor Department officials in Washington today.

If there is no negotiated settlement, only a special act of Congress can end the strike. The strike originally was called for early January but was postponed 30 days, the final legal remedy under the Railway Labor Act.

Some 300,000 daily passengers, a majority of them commuters in major Eastern and Midwestern metropolitan areas, were the first to feel the effects of the strike. Freight service also was halted in 16 states, the District of Columbia and two Canadian provinces served by the line.

"We're out of a business," a spokesman for the railroad said shortly after 28,000 conductors and brakemen walked off the job at 12:01 a.m., the deadline set by Penn Central for implementing new work rules designed to save about $100 million annually.

The strike came within 12 hours after the Nixon administration rejected a Penn Central plea for at least $600 million in federal aid.

The railroad's remaining 52,000 operating employes, represented by other unions, were notified not to report to work. They had been expected to honor the picket lines.

However, Rogers in his prepared remarks said that the positive developments since the Jan. 27 signing "constitute only the first steps toward building peace in Indochina."

He added that massive and complex economic and political problems still must be resolved in Vietnam and he acknowledged that the conflicts in Laos and Cambodia have not been settled.

According to the secretary, the key to lasting peace involves the will of the Vietnamese parties and restraint on the part of "Hanoi's principal allies and suppliers."

He indicated that the Soviet Union and China's participation in an international conference later this month to underwrite a Vietnam settlement constitutes "a significant first step ... to help make it endure, and to promote the transition to lasting peace."

McMullin when she put the gun to her head and shot herself. He said the argument started because she wanted him to return to California, Sheriff John Dennis reported.

Scott County Coroner Gene Nunnelee said the woman died of a .25- caliber bullet which entered her head two and one- half inches behind and one inch above the left ear. The bullet crossed downward through the brain at a 15- degree angle and came to rest behind the right eye.

A coroner's jury was impaneled at 1 p.m. Wednesday to view the body, Nunnelee said.

An inquest into the death is tentatively scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday.

Kaiser was employed by Robinson Wholesale Building Supply Company, 513 E. Malone, until recently when he was laid off.

Miss Alvarez had joined Kaiser in Sikeston in December. She is a native of California.

The couple reportedly has one child, whose age was not disclosed.

The body was removed to Nunnelee Funeral Chapel where arrangements are incomplete.

Six persons were injured at 12:55 p.m. at the intersection of Highway 25 and Route F south of Cardwell when a car driven by August G. Jackson, 54, of Leachville, Ark., failed to yield the right of way and was struck in the left side by a car driven by Borease R. Branum, 50, of Hornersville.

Injured in the Jackson auto were Jackson, cuts and a broken left leg, and Bertha Brinkley, 74, of Leachville, Ark., multiple cuts and broken hip and ribs.

In the Branum car, four persons were injured. New vaccine prepared to fight future flu

PARIS (AP)—The Pasteur Institute says it has developed a vaccine against all types of influenza that are expected to develop in the next five years.

Prof. Claude Hannoun, head of the institute's ecology unit, said Tuesday that Previous flu vaccines have been developed only after each new type of virus appeared. But by transforming the virus into all the forms it is expected to take between now and 1978, he said the institute's doctors formulated a vaccine against all of them.

Hannoun said the vaccine also is effective against the types of flu that developed from the 1969 "Hong Kong" virus. He said the vaccine is in production and will become available generally as soon as the government approves.

The vaccine resulted from a process in which forms of flu virus yet to come were artificially created in the laboratory, Hannoun said.

Hannoun explained that flu virus undergoes a basic change about once every 10 years. Within this 10-year span, it undergoes variations, that regularly defeat existing flu vaccines.

The Pasteur Institute took the basic 1969 Hong Kong strain of virus, fought it with antibodies that forced it to undergo variations, and isolated the ultimate stage of variation.

The ultimate stage of variation — expected five years from now in real life — is a state in which it is chemically impossible for the virus to change. It then undergoes a mutation into a new form, and the process begins again.

Eagleton urges study on aging

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., Tuesday introduced a bill to establish a National Institute on Aging for expansion of biological and behavioral research in the aging process.

President Nixon vetoed a similar bill last fall.

In a statement accompanying the bill, Eagleton said the bill is similar to the one vetoed, except it does not include mental health provisions.

The chairman of the subcommittee on aging said the President cited the mental health provisions in the previous bill as one of his reasons for its veto.

"Basic research into the process of aging has now reached a point where major breakthroughs are possible. There remain, however, critical questions yet to be answered," Eagleton said.

He added that aging "underlies our increased susceptibility with advancing years to cancer, heart attacks and degenerative diseases."

While there are 20 million Americans aged 65 or over, "the amount expressly devoted to aging research in the National Institutes of Health represents only about one-tenth of one per cent of federal expenditures in health programs for the elderly," Eagleton said.

This contrasts with "as much as two-thirds of our total expenditures for health care ... attributed to treating older persons," he said.

17 Exam fund set for gynecological tests

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Students Association has alloted $4,000 so that women students at the University of Missouri-Columbia can have a free gynecological examination and possibly prescriptions for contraceptives.

Edward Thelen, acting dean of student affairs, said Wednesday the one-time free examination at the center with student funds was a compromise.

The Association of Women Students had demanded the campus student health clinic hire a full-time gynecologist for free care. In the past students have had to pay $12 or more tor such examinations.

Thelen said he thought contraceptives were behind the call for a full-time gynecologist. Such help, he said, would cost the university $40,000 to $50,000.

Dr. William Griffin, director of the medical enter gynecology department, and Nancy Heinrich, an AWS official, said the demands were motivated more by a need for a specialist.

Griffin said he doubted his staff of eight doctors will be swamped with patients. The "demand will not be as great as some people think," he said.

Malden sign-up Friday for OJT

MALDEN — Seasonal and migrant farm workers in the Malden area will be given an opportunity to sign up for on-the- job training courses when OJT staff members visit the city Friday for a one- day recruitment effort.

Persons interested in enrolling in on- the- job training should see Mike Bates at Apt. 1004-B, Malden Industrial Park.

Th T program, being offered by the Missouri Delta Community Corporation, is open to seasonal and migrant farm workers in Dunklin, Pemiscot and Butler counties. The project is sponsored by Missouri Delta Ecumenical Ministry, which has a contract with Rural Missouri, Inc., for OJT courses in the three-county area.

Search starts for SeMo Psychiatrist

KENNETT — Officials of the Missouri Division of Mental Health said Wednesday they would begin recruiting a psychiatrist for the Southeast Missouri Mental Health Center in Kennett. The announcement follows disclosure of the employment of a director for the mental health facility which has been built at Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

Dr. George Ulett, chairman of the Missouri Institute for Psychiatry at St. Louis, said the full facilities of the state's research and training unit would be utilized in an effort to secure a fulltime psychiatrist for the Bootheel mental health center.

Dr. Ulett, former director of the state agency and now heading its research and training unit, said the task of recruiting a psychiatrist for the Bootheel center has become more difficult in recent months because of a reduced number of residents in training at MIP. He said the delay in opening the mental health facility here, originally scheduled to begin operations last September, coincided with an acute shortage of residents at MIP.

Operations of the unit in St. Louis have only recently been reduced because of the smaller number of physicians entering the psychiatric field.

The federal staffing grant for the CMH in Kennett calls for the employment of one full- time psychiatrist and additional psychiatric assistance as required.

Dr. Ulett said he knew of only one or perhaps two possibilities at this time to fill the psychiatric slot at the Bootheel community mental health facility here.

Wednesday, officials at Dunklin county Memorial Hospital announced the employment of Dale Christian, a psychiatric social worker at Farmington State Hospital, as director of the CMH unit here. Christian will begin his duties here in March.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's Corrections Department is using a 1970 law to transfer troublesome prisoners to other states, with a handful already sent to Missouri institutions.

Transportation meeting is tonight at Malden

MALDEN— A meeting to discuss the possibilities of establishing a public transportation system for Malden will be held tonight at the community building and DAEOC center. The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m.

The meeting has been set to report findings of a public transportation study compiled by the Malden Chamber of Commerce and Miss Ceely Ackerman, area VISTA Volunteer Worker.

The paper work on the study was begun several months ago after the Chamber received numerous requests from local citizens and business firms about securing a public transportation system for Malden. Letters were written to government agencies inquiring about financial support; and successful operating bus systems were contacted to gain information relative to their operations. A report on the findings of these two aspects is included in the study to be given.

The meeting is open to all residents of Malden and surrounding sub- divisions, and all interested persons are urged to attend. Persons attending will be asked to express their views on whether or not a public transportation system is needed for Malden, and if so, what type of system would best serve the needs of the community. Those opposed to the system will have an opportunity to state their opposition.

The meeting will inform residents of the groundwork that has already been set up to establish a public transportation system in Malden; and will brief residents on the involvement of a technical assistant specializing in transportation, who has set up successful transportation systems throughout the country.

New signs go up

New school crosswalk signs have been put up at Sikeston Public Schools. Jack Cothern, principal at Southwest Elementary School, right, points out areas to watch for motorist when children are in the crosswalk to one of the safety patrol students, Mike Ellison. The signs are the new standardized type, using symbols to give motorist a visual interpretation of the warning. Other signs are placed a short distance preceding the crosswalk to forewarn drivers of the approaching crosswalk. (Daily Standard Photo)

Laos cease-fire, pullout expected soon: Rogers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today the United States expects a Laos cease-fire soon and a withdrawal of all foreign forces from that country.

By U.S. estimate, some 60,000 North Vietnamese troops are in Laos, which has been a prime transit route for North Vietnamese forces heading to neighboring South Vietnam.

Testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Rogers also got clear notice from Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., to go slow on pushing postwar U.S. reconstruction aid for North Vietnam.

Rogers said that the Nixon administration has not yet made any commitment for A nerican economic help to Hanoi although he said it would be "an investment in peace" when supplied.

The secretary of state said other countries are considering providing postwar rebuilding assistance to Indochina too, and whatever U.S. aid money is involved "would be subject to congressional approval."

Morgan noted there has been criticism from various quarters about going too fast with postwar aid to North Vietnam.

"I am glad to have your assurance that you are going to move slow in that area," the committee head told Rogers.

The secretary of state gave the House group a generally optimistic account of how the Vietnam peace is working out.

"So far developments certainly support our expectations that the agreement will work ... and that peace with honor is being achieved," he testified.

Rogers told the House

Jones requests hearing

CHARLESTON — Tommy Wayne Jones of Charleston waived arraignment this morning on a first degree murder charge before Magistrate T. J. Brown Jr. and requested a preliminary hearing.

Hearing date for Jones, charged with the Feb. 3 stabbing death of George Holt of Pacific, was set for Feb. 22. Bond was set at $25,000.

Felonious assault with intent to kill charges against Willie Dale McMillen of Bertrand and Jimmy Graham of Charleston were dismissed. The two men, who were with Jones on the morning of the Holt stabbing, remain in custody for probation violation. Additional charges may be filed against them at a later date.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Feb. 22 for Emmett Young of Chicago on two felony charges, assault with intent to kill and carrying a concealed weapon.

A felony charge of possession of controlled drugs against Tony Michael Green of St. Louis was continued to Feb. 15 to allow time to employ counsel. Bond was set at $10,000.

A second felony charge of possession of marijuana in excess of 35 grams against Green was also continued to Feb. 15. Also named in the second charge was David Wesley Martin of St. Louis. Bond for each was set at $10,000.

Annise Davis of Malden, formerly of rural East Prairie, waived preliminary hearing on a felony charge of issuing a fraudulent check and was bound over to Circuit Court for a Feb. 13 appearance.

Judge Brown ordered the forfeiture of a $1,500 bond posted for Eugene Fowler, alias Eugene Murr, on a felony charge of tampering with a motor vehicle, after the defendant failed to appear in court.

A misdemeanor charge of stealing less than $50 against Herbert Merriweather of rural East Prairie was continued to Feb. 15, and bond was set at $500.

An attorney was appointed to represent Dennis Howell of East Prairie on a charge of issuing a check with intent to defraud.

A charge of disturbing the peace against Ricky Slaughter, Ronnie Laster, Charles Carlisle and Greg Hall was continued to Feb. 15 to allow time for the four to employ counsel.

Tommy Wayne Jones of Charleston was sentenced to 10 days in jail on a speeding charge. M. L. Graham, charged with being a Missouri resident with Illinois operator's license, was fined $21.

Terry Joe Riggs of Charleston was fined $26 for improper registration. Louis R. Sailors of Sikeston, charged with driving with no operator's license, was ordered to pay a $41 fine or spend 10 days in jail.

Other cases continued included Rodney DeGroot of Charleston, out- of- state license while a Missouri resident; and Patricia Ann Johnson of East Prairie, no operator's license.

A charge of no operator's license against William Doyle Fire of East Prairie was dismissed and costs were certified to Mississippi County.

Charges expected in shooting death

Jimmy Kaiser, 34, of 203 Selma was to be charged with first degree murder today in connection with the shooting death Wednesday of 24- year- old Carol Alvarez. Charges had been drawn up this morning and were expected to be filed this afternoon, according to Magistrate Court Judge Lloyd Briggs.

Miss Alvarez, who reportedly had been living with Kaiser, on and off for sometime, was pronounced dead of a bullet wound in the head at 11:40 a.m. Wednesday upon arrival at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Kaiser, who brought Miss Alvarez to the hospital, was taken into custody by sheriff's deputies and jailed overnight at Benton.

Kaiser told deputies that he and Miss Alvarez were arguing in his car on Highway 61 between Sikeston and

Two suspects bound over

DONIPHAN, Mo. (AP)—The second man charged with murder in the January slaying of the Grandin, Mo., bank president and two members of his family was bound over for trial today on three counts of first degree murder.

Magistrate Willie Dodd of Ripley County ordered Lloyd D. Cowin, 21, of Van Buren bound over for trial in Circuit Court.

Testimony at Cowin's preliminary hearing today paralleled that offered Wednesday at a hearing for Jerry Wayne Rector, 22, of Van Buren, who was also bound over for trial on three counts of murder.

A lawyer for Cowin asked the judge if bond could be set for his client. Dodd set Cowin's bond at a total of $300,000 on the three counts.

No hearing date has been set for Dallas R. Delay, 33, of Valle Mines, a third man charged in the slayings of Robert R. Kitterman, 43; his wife, Bertha, 38, and his daughter, Roberta.

The bodies of the Kittermans were found bound to trees shortly after he had taken $10,850 from the Bank of Grandin to pay extortionists for their abductions. Each had been shot in the head.

itnesses produced during Rector's preliminary hearing included Lt. F.A. Findley of the Highway Patrol, who testified concerning a statement given him by Rector.

Findley said Rector told of leaving Grandin in a truck after Cowin and Delay were let out near the Kitterman home the day of the slayings.

The state patrol officer quoted Rector as saying he had returned in the truck to a meeting spot and was turning the vehicle around when he heard three shots.

A short time later the three men drove in the truck from the spot where the bodies were found, Findley quoted Rector as saying.

Three other highway patrolmen, an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and John R. Standard of the Poplar Bluff American-Republic were other Wednesday witnesses.

Abductor eludes police dragnet

A man who abducted a Sikeston woman at gunpoint Wednesday from the Kingsway Plaza Mall parking lot has apparently eluded a police dragnet throughout the Bootheel.

The man was described as a white male in his middle 20s with long black hair, a beard and mustache. A man matching that description was reported last seen near the Missouri - Arkansas state line.

He is wanted for kidnaping 21- year - old Phyllis Trucks, who lives at 508 S. New Madrid St. She was abducted about 9 a.m. as she arrived outside J. C. Penney Co. where she is employed.

Miss Trucks told police that she did not know the man and that he did not harm her or make any threatening statements.

He forced her to drive him in her pickup truck to an outer road near Cross's Truck Stop at the Interstate 55 interchange near New Madrid where he got out and fled on foot into a nearby field.

Miss Trucks then drove to the truck stop and reported the incident to police.

Sikeston police were taking statements from her late this morning.

The New Madrid sheriff's department reported today no new clues or developments have been uncovered in the search for the man. It is believed that he is probably out of the state.

Much of state government runs self, says Bond assistant

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — "Much of state government runs itself" under present laws, says Charles Valier, former state representative who now is Gov. Christopher S. Bond's legislative assistant.

Valier outlined the governor's position for the House Committee on Reorganization Wednesday night. It was the second hearing session on a 27-page House bill to implement reorganization approved by the voters last August.

A 540-page Senate version is being rewritten into less than 200 pages.

Administrative agencies serving similar functions should be placed in the same department, Valier said.

He said directors of the proposed 13 departments and the Office of Administration should be given complete budgetary and personnel control of their departments. If that is accomplished, he said, the governor as chief executive can effectively administer state government.

Valier has been in a storm of controversy this week as the result of a memo sent out by the governor's office saying all agency heads were to clear their testimony with Valier before they give it to legislative committees.

Valier came up before a Senate appointments committee for confirmation as a trustee of the state employes' retirement system Wednesday, giving the senators a chance to probe him about the wayward memo.

The Senate voted 28-4 and the house, 120-40 to send a protest resolution to the governor after the memo was circulated.

Valier said he did not send out the memo and has told all agency heads they are free to testify before giving a memo to him. He said the controversy was caused by "miscommunication" and that the governor's office did not intend to interfere with the legislature's authority.

What upset lawmakers the most was that two agencies exclusively under control of the legislature—the permanent committees on research and fiscal affairs—also received copies of the memo.

Valier said they were not on the distribution list.

In today's action the Senate received a bill, sponsored by freshman Sen. Larry Marshall, R-Columbia, to repeal all the Sunday sales laws to allow sale of items other than food and drugs.

Three senators also introduced a bill to allow the Office of Administration to make grants from federal revenue sharing money to local governments to aid in formation of public water supply districts.

A similar bill was introduced in the House by Rep. Lloyd J. Baker, D-Moberly.

Also in the Senate today a bill setting a minimum annual salary for probation and parole officers at $9,000 was approved for final consideration. The sponsor, Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said it costs the state only 72 cents a day to keep a prisoner on parole compared with $6.44 a day to keep him in prison.

The House today approved for final consideration a bill to give probationary teachers protection in cases of being terminated.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Wayne Goode, D-Normandy, provides that probationary teachers shall receive prior notice of deficiencies and have 90 days to correct them. Upon failure to do so, written reasons of the termination shall be required.

The Senate also approved the appointment of Valier and three other gubernatorial appointees.

The Senate was expected to act today on the appointment of Valier and three other persons.

Elena Jungmeyer, 26, a Lohman housewife and a Republican, was named to head the Department of Public Health and Welfare. Bond wants to phase out the director's duties as part of his reorganization plan, but Mrs. Jungmeyer still would supervise 4,500 employes. She succeeds Austin Hill, who resigned.

William Kostman, 34, former vice president of Commerce Bacshares in Kansas City and St. Louis, was named to succeed H. Duane Pemberton, who resigned as Commissioner of Finance. Kostman is a Republican.

Two appointments to the Highway Commission were approved.

Daniel Duncan, 44, president of a sawmill and lumber company at St. Joseph, was named to succeed Jack E. Stapleton Sr., of Stanberry; and former state Senator Jack S. Curtis was appointed to replace Rufus E. Mayes.

Still alive for a second go round is a bill by Sen. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, to increase the allowable truck weight limits on Missouri highways other than federal interstates.

The bill, termed by Sen. Edward T. Linehan, D-St. Louis, as a "highway buster," was defeated 14-14, a tie vote, Tuesday. But because of the tie vote, it was alive for reconsideration.

The Senate voted 19-9 Wednesday for reconsideration and Young promptly put the bill on the

What is the public's biggest gripe against marketers today? According to a Council of Better Business Bureaus poll of 67,700 Americans -- billed as "the broadest survey of consumer opinion ever undertaken in this country" -- 31 per cent cite "products that don't perform as represented." Next come misleading advertising (23 per cent), poor personal service in stores (20 per cent), misleading lables, directions or packaging (13 per cent).

An editor friend writes: "One of these days this nation will find it has too many persons on social security benefits, too many on unemployment compensation, too many on retirement plans, too many on welfare rolls, too many on medicare and medicaid benefits, and America will find itself in the midst of the greatest turmoil it has ever encountered. That day of turmoil is almost here. I don't know the answers to the nation's ills, but I do know that the achiever, the person who digs the straightest ditch, the person who honorably and honestly applies himself, will find that his place in society is assured as a sound and healthy one. VANISHING AMERICANS -- US

At the present rate of birth, the nation will achieve ZPG — zero population growth — in about the year 2040, with a stabilized population of some 320 million Americans.

It could come sooner, for according to the latest federal statistics, the rate has dropped to 2.08 children per family (replacement level is 2.1) and there are indications it may drop further.

But the two-child family is too little and too late, warns a new group called Negative Population Growth, Inc. Only the one-child family, it declares, can save us from our environmental crisis.

To retain "a decent quality of national life," says NPG, the U. S. population must be stabilized not at 320 million but at no more than half its present level. That would be about 100 million.

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments by the Pavement Plato:

Do you ever stop to think how much of your life is spent in performing rituals?

Rituals are the little habits of conduct by which we meet the common occurences of our existence. They govern us from dawn to dawn, from Monday through Sunday. They are helpful because they tell us what to do in most situations, but sometimes they also bore us half to death.

They become too patterned, too chorelike, and at times we yearn to break out of the confinement of rituals and do something wild, free and mildly insane. And, of course, at times most of us do.

Here are a few commonplace rituals:

Brushing your teeth.

Spraying something in your armpits so you won't smell like nature meant you to.

Saying something nice about the hero of the occasion at a funeral, when your private opinion is that the world would have been better off if he had died ten years before.

Picking up bar and restaurant checks for liberated women.

Congratulating the pastor of your church on Sunday on the powerful sermon he preached that you never really listened to.

Going to functions where they have after dinner speeches.

Going to cocktail parties where everybody is either too clever or too pontifical.

Telling our innocent little children how they must behave if they want to grow up and be safe and happy — like us.

So we wear out our lives, from birth to the tomb, performing this little ritual...that little ritual. What would happen if for a single day every person in the world ceased to go through any of his usual rituals whatsoever?

A Tennessee real estate man has purchased an acre of land in each of the 50 states and has subdivided them into one-inch square parcels. He sells them for 29 cents — and for $14.50 you can own a "piece of land" in all the 50 United States.

He also supplies a deed for each inch and all 50 deeds take up about 32 square feet on an office or den wall. If he sells them all, he stands to take in $87 million or about $1,740,000 per acre.

CAPITALIST ACHIEVEMENTS

A 95-year- old former lawyer and lecturer, Mr. Frank Branch Riley, made a statement on fundamental principles to a group of Oregon businessmen, a short time ago, that deserves repeating. In answer to those who scorn profit, he says, "The guy who saves something out of his weekly wages is a capitalist. He owns a car or an extra suit of clothes, a savings account ... Joe Doak, if he is thrifty ... can share in the products of almost any American enterprise ... Our system is not perfect ... but ... we have achieved a standard of living, a distribution of wealth to the masses of our citizens, the like of which has never been known in any other country, in any other government, under any other flag since the dawn of civilization on this planet."

As has been pointed out by a great many shrewd observers, if every wish or demand of antiestablishment extremists were granted, new demands would soon be invented. Their idea of utopia is anarchism. In the final analysis, their philosophy is acceptable to no nation -- capitalist, communist or socialist.

What's the score on enzymes in laundering products? Are they safe or not?

They have been cleared as safe. On April 14, 1972 the Federal Trade Commission announced that it has closed its investigation of possible health hazards associated with the use of enzymes in household detergents. The action was based on its view that currently available evidence of a health hazard is insufficient to warrant any action at the present time and follows the report of the National Academy of Sciences / National Research Council on enzyme- containing laundering compounds and consumer health that was issued November 17, 1971.

RECOGNITION OF PRIVATE INITIATIVE

Whether the United States has enough electric power to meet the huge energy demands of the future depends, to a great extent, upon public willingness to accept needed power plants as part of the environment and upon government policies that will encourage investors and utility managements to get on with the job of building power capacity. For some years, under the euphemism of reliability, advocates of government management of the electric industry have pushed for federal control over the industry amounting to an ultimate federal takeover of the electric power business from generator to consumer. Such federal control of the industry would simply lead to procedural red tape and bureaucratic inertia that would remove all hope of orderly, flexible planning to keep abreast of energy requirements.

Fortunately for the nation, a philosophy of preserving private initiative appears to be prevailing, so far as government policy is concerned. Evidence of this appeared at a hearing before the Senate Appropriations Independent Offices Subcommittee where Senator John O. Pastore said utilities should develop their own reliability "because the question of reliability is understood" by them. He added that utilities are as distributed as anyone else over possible power shortages. Another witness at the hearing, Chairman of the Federal Power Commission, Mr. John Nassikas agreed with the Senator and said the trouble with reliability legislation is that it is aimed at control of the industry – "nationalization, if you please."

These two public officials have a great deal to say about what kind of regulatory policies the electric industry must live under. Such frank recognition by them that a regulatory take-over of the industry is neither necessary nor desirable signifies confidence in the all-important principle of maximum encouragement of private initiative. Private initiative has been the source of abundant electric energy in the past and will continue to be so in the future.

Redistribution Is Not The Answer

Those who advocate wholesale changes in the tax structure to place heavier burdens on business and middle income and wealthy taxpayers ignore economic realities.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, has said that, "We've got to create 30,000 new jobs every week just to break even." The so-called "tax reform" movement has not attempted to answer the question where the 30,000 necessary new jobs every week are coming from, or what would happen to work incentives, the market process and standards of living in general if a forced large- scale income redistribution is made through the tax system.

What would massive income redistribution do to the production process and incentives to work and invest? We believe this is an eminently fair question to which Congress should address itself before revamping taxes.

If we are to improve the well-being of the people about whom the reformers are most concerned, then tax policies should encourage job-creating, private sector investment and, indeed, should go further in such encouragement. However else are we going to continue to pay wage scales so far above everyone else in the industrialized world?

SOVIETS BREW PANAMA STEW

Constructive citizens of Republic USA will wish to be alert to counter any moves by enemies of Freedom to knuckle under to Soviet meddling in the Panama Canal area. The Soviet Russians are rewarding U.S. efforts to save them from starvation by financing and advising terrorists trying to take over or sabotage the strategic Panama Canal.

Panama's anti- American strongman, Omar Torrijos, and his communist advisers have maneuvered a meeting of the United Nations Security Council in Panama City, with the idea of embarrassing the United States through demonstrations, riots and sabotage. Some intelligence agencies think that Torrijos may even try to seize the Canal.

Disruptive protests are being organized by Manuel Pineior, Cuban communist dictator Castro's chief for overseas intelligence operations. Pineior went with Castro to Moscow recently and Castro is funneling arms and money to the communist leaders and sympathizers who will direct the mobs.

The U.N. Security Council meeting in March will have the Panama representative taking his turn as presiding officer, so he will be able to control the agenda and make sure that an explosive situation exists. Although Cuba is not a member of the Security Council, Castro is sending several officials to the meetings as "observers." Soviet Russia would love to control the Panama Canal through a communist stooge government in Panama. It is vital that good citizens of Republic USA crusade to prevent a communist take- over of the U.S.- built Canal. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON— Some of my best friends, entrusted with de facto power to decide what your pay increases and price rises will be in Phase Three, have been pledged to secrecy by that cultured economic Godfather, Prof. John Dunlop, the nation's one- man cost of living (COLC) czar.

Sort of a respectable Omerta. Discussions and decisions of the COLC's Labor-Management Advisory Committee are being made in supreme secrecy despite the intense effect these will have on every household, every worker, every businessman.

One committee chap said, "Dunlop would slash our wrists and other parts of our anatomy if we talked." Well, it wasn't very difficult for one bred in a city room to learn what was discussed and decided. But the most significant point is that the fate of the nation's wage and price negotiations, until the current controls are lost in future Ph.D. theses, are in one man's hands-- John Dunlop's, Director of the Cost of Living Council.

First, he has the power to clobber or to approve thousands of contracts, new sections of old ones and new agreements throughout the next few months at least.

That power has been given to him by Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz who told me recently: "We're not spoiling for a fight but there is a complete willingness to take the stick out of the closet. There is no doubt. No one should have any doubt about it. We intend to make Phase Three work. We will clobber when needed. . .We are not just talking."

Shultz said this privately so he means it, though he has said some of it publicly-- which isn't always prologue to action in crises.

But what's the clobber point? Well, here we come to the second secret meeting of the Labor- Management Advisory Committee Wednesday, Jan. 31. This ran from 11 a.m. in the Treasury Dept.'s special Conference Room to 4:30 p.m.

First it was agreed among the 10 labor leaders and businessmen -- chaired by Dunlop -- that there would not be decisions by votes but by consensus.

It was generally understood that the 5.5 per cent wage increase (per year) guidelines would not be rigid in many negotiations.

There was hard talk. Some of the businessmen, including a banker, had never run into the earthiness of Seafarer's chief Paul Hall, the razorblade lines of laconic AFL-CIO second- in-command Lane Kirkland (sitting in for George Meany now in Florida preparing for the high command session), the Fabian working- class approach of Auto Union chief Leonard Woodcock, or the bluntness of Teamsters' president Frank Fitzsimmons.

They left no doubt that 5.5 would not be satisfactory in the big contract negotiations upcoming, be it with General Electric, the trucking industry or with the Big Three car manufacturers. There would have to be more. In effect, Dunlop indicated it would be handled.

There was considerable discussion of the $95 million Phase Two machinery. What now happens to the 3,000 negotiated and signed labor-management contracts backlogged at the old Pay Board?

Most observers have overlooked this crisis. The question is: Are Pay Board decisions on the final "control year" of a contract, decisions made last year, still binding after Jan. 11 when President Nixon launched Phase Three?

And what about decisions which cut back wage hikes won last year? No one should make light of this --- least of all John Dunlop. Recently he has lived in the world of the construction trades. He should get into the U.S. Shuttling between the Labor Dept. and Harvard flies him right over America.

There are angry New York hospital workers, led by left-wing, bearded Leon Davis, president of the activist Drug and Hospital Workers Union Local 1199. They had their pay agreement cut by the Pay Board Jan. 25. Now Davis is saying, "If these courts (to which the union has appealed -- V.R.) don't get us what we have rightly won, then we will take such other steps as are necessary. One thing must be clear. Our members are determined to get what's due them – no matter what it takes." And it could well take a city-wide hospital strike.

Then there is thee West Coast militant Longshoremen's Union led by Harry Bridges. They want back the 30 cents an hour slashed from their contract last year which caused Meany and company to walk off the Pay Board. And the 1,600 Northwest Airlines pilots and 10,300 Machinists working for Eastern Airlines were cut back Jan. 31. They want their money.

And there are 3,000 contracts signed by unions, most of whose leaders say they're not bound by the Pay Board to which Mr. Nixon said goodbye Monday morning. This could cause the big post - Phase Two pay "bubble" most economists are worried about and the ballooning of inflation.

So the secret Wednesday, Jan. 31 Labor - Management Advisory Committee session appointed a six-man task force of bright young technicians to come in with a report. The boards will meet again during the AFL-CIO Executive Council session in Bal Harbour, Fla., probably Feb. 23.

And Prof. Dunlop will be in the chair. He's a very bright fellow but secrecy will get him no place. The whole thing could balloon up in his erudite face. Inflation too. And a tough rank and file, very literate now. It read and it wants to know what decisions are being made in their name.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: For Our Man in Nicaragua, Quake Was Pain in the Neck

WASHINGTON — For the homeless victims, the Nicaraguan earthquake was a terrible catastrophe. But for U. S. Ambassador Turner Shelton and his wife, Lesly, it was a terrible inconvenience.

Not only did U. S. rescue workers swarm down upon them, but some tried to enter the ambassador's massive official residence. The ambassador and his lady would have none of this.

All U. S. employes assigned to the relief effort had to stay in tents pitched outside and were not permitted even to use the downstairs bathrooms in the residence. Only after bigwigs from Washington arrived on the scene was this rule relaxed.

One rescue worker told us Mrs. Shelton's greatest concern after the earthquake was the trauma it caused her beautiful Persian cats. She called the presidential palace, said this source, to request a veterinarian to administer to her pets.

Other rescue workers remembered the cats but had no knowledge of the appeal for a veterinarian. But they had a clear recollection of Mrs. Shelton's annoyance over the rescue operations.

IMPERIAL PRIVACY

When one official went into the library of the residence to place a phone call to the State Department, he found Mrs. Shelton outraged that her imperial privacy was being violated. "I would like to sit in my own house and talk to someone without being interrupted," she huffed.

She was equally incensed when the same official, visiting the ambassador on official business, put his briefcase on a chair. "Would you kindly remove your stachel from the furniture?" she snorted.

Another higher official, who arrived on the scene later, said the party was given access to the residence. He found Mrs. Shelton "quite cordial." She even showed them her favorite cat, he said. By this time, housing had also been found for many of the relief workers.

We made repeated attempts to reach the Sheltons for their comment but couldn't get through because of earthquake damage to the telephone system. John King, a State Department spokesman who was on the scene, conceded that while there had been "some bitching," it was caused by the confusion. "Everyone's nerves went," said King.

COFFEE CAPER

While other generals grapple with such problems as drug abuse and racial discord in the ranks, a commanding general at Ft. Belvoir, Va., is solemnly investigating the way the Army serves its coffee.

The Great Coffee Inquiry was ordered by Lt. Gen. John Norton, boss of the Army's Combat Development Command, after some of his soldiers complained that brewing coffee for their superiors each morning was degrading.

The general, being a man of action, turned his command upside down to check on the coffee complaints. Meetings were held, memos written and a survey conducted "to determine the extent of this problem."

Hundreds of "Coffee - Drinker / Coffee Maker" questionnaires were distributed, asking civilian and military employes whether they objected to making coffee for others.

Colonel Ed Cope is keeping the general's coffee investigation on the front burner. "We believe in getting at the bottom of things," he told us solemnly, "even if that means coffee pots."

SURE SHOT — A TV commercial shows basketball's unforgetable Bill Russell sinking a tough shot and commenting on behalf of the Bell system that you can't miss with long- distance calls. But as originally written, Russell was supposed to try the tough shot, bounce it off the hoop for a miss and comment: "I can miss, but you can't, with long distance." On the first shot, Russell tried to miss but sunk the basket. He made several more attempts but continued to drop them in. Finally, Bell's long-distance ad chief, Dan "Hutch" Hutchins, gave up on Russell and rewrote the script to show him dropping one for Mother Bell.

BUICK CONFESSION – An aggrieved Buick Electra owner, Harry Crawshaw of Grand Blanc, Mich., complained repeatedly to General Motors that his car, with less than 10,000 miles on it, was guzzling a quart of oil every 750 miles or so. In an admission that doesn't make its way into the ads, Buick Customer Service Supervisor W. A. Roeske finally told him, "one might expect to use up to one quart in 750 miles." This, wrote Roeske, may be "entirely normal ... We hope you understand our position." Crawshaw tells us he is impressed with Buick's belated frankness, but wishes he'd been told about it before he bought the car.

LAND SWAP -- The U. S. Forest Service is caught in an ecological bind that may force it to trade 7,600 acres of federal land for a tenth as much acreage in New Mexico's Gila National Wilderness. The owner of the wilderness land is rancher John Hamilton, Jr., who, according to Forest Service documents, has threatened to turn it into subdivisions unless the swap goes through. This would endanger such rare species as the Mexican duck and would wreck the "solitude and integrity of the Gila Wilderness," says the documents. The Forest Service justifies the trade by saying the 7,600 government acres are good only for grazing. But persistent reports say there are copper and other minerals in the land, an extra bonus for the hard-trading rancher.

Senate votes to form special committee to check Watergate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rejecting Republican attempts to expand its focus, the Senate has voted to form a special committee to investigate the Watergate bugging incident and other allegations of GOP political espionage against Democrats in 1972.

The vote Wednesday was 77 to 0 after Republican senators failed to gain equal membership on the panel and to broaden its inquiry to include charges of Democratic misdeeds in the 1964 and 1968 campaigns.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who has been designated chairman, said the committee probably won't be ready to begin public hearings for a couple of months.

Members of the panel will be named by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler has pledged administration cooperation with any nonpartisan investigation. The White House was reported to favor an evenly divided committee.

Two former officials of President Nixon's re-election campaign were convicted by a U.S. District Court Jan. 30 of conspiracy, burglary and wiretapping in connection with the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate complex in Washington. Five other persons, including a former Nixon security man, pleaded guilty to similar charges early in the trial.

Democrats initiated the congressional probe, saying the trial failed to investigate the bugging, partly because the Nixon administration's Justice Department was reluctant to fully probe allegations that high-ranking White House officials approved the operation.

Debate on the resolution Wednesday often was acrimonious with Republicans accusing the Democrats of trying to stack the committee so they could conduct a partisan probe aimed solely at discrediting the GOP.

Earlier, Republicans lost two attempts by Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., to split the committee evenly with three Democrats and three Republicans, and another by Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., to extend the probe to include the 1964 and 1968 presidential campaigns. It finally was decided to boost the committee's membership from the original five to seven, but with Democrats still in the majority.

Stennis makes improvements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis was making satisfactory progress today, but his condition was still very serious and "the prognosis remains grave," hospital officials said.

Stennis, who was shot twice in a holdup last week, slept intermittently during the night, said a 7 a.m. EST statement from Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

Surgeons at Walter Reed Army Medical Center said they are concerned now about infection and the condition of the senator's pancreas and small intestine.

Members of Stennis' family and President Nixon visited Stennis Wednesday. The President said afterward, "I think he's going to make it."

A bill was introduced in the Mississippi Senate Wednesday to authorize a $50,000 reward for information leading to conviction of Stennis' assailants. Police have said they are looking for three male teen-agers in connection with the shooting.

Stennis is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

'Truth in elections' law introduced

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A "truth in elections" law was introduced in the Missouri Senate today by Sen. Ike Skelton, D-Lexington.

Under the bill, a candidate for statewide or county-wide office would be required to designate a treasurer for his campaign and no contributions could be received or expenditures made without going through the treasurer.

"The present campaign law does not do the job," Skelton said. "It is riddled with loopholes and the reports filed in compliance with the law are practically useless in determining the true picture as to what was actually contributed and spent in an election."

Skelton's proposal is similar to a Florida law which requires reports before and after an election, according to a statement by Skelton.

NEW YORK (AP) — Opera at the Forum has been announced for three weeks, Feb 19 to March 10, in the 282-seat Forum Theater in Lincoln Center which until recently has operated as an off-Broadway theater.

There will be 25 performances, alternating a double bill of Purcell's "Dido and Aeneas" and the American premiere of Maurice Ohana's "Syllabaire pour Phedre" with Virgil Thomson's "Four Saints in Three Acts."

Ann Landers

Staring may be only bad habit

Dear Ann Landers: I laughed when I read that letter from a man whose initials were P.B. He said your voice on the radio sounds like a grinder full of nails. His description was quite accurate but he didn't go far enough. I'll bet he has never seen you on TV. Are you aware that you talk out of the side of your mouth like a gangster? For the life of me I can't understand why a person who makes so many public appearances has never had speech lesssons.

I'll bet my bottom dollar this is ONE letter I will never see in the paper.--- Straighten Up And Talk Right

Dear Up: Speech lessons wouldn't help. My mouth is crooked. Please send that bottom dollar-- and any other loose buck you can lay your hands on-- to the American Cancer Society in New York. The address is: 219 East 42nd Street, New York, New York 10017. I cost the American Cancer Society $30,000 last year. That's what they had to spend on postage when I suggested in this column that women write for the free Self Breast Examination booklet. (P.S. The booklet is still available and every women between 20 and 70 should have one.)

Dear Ann Landers: Please don't ignore this letter because it sounds like a dumb crush that will blow over in a week. I need help.

This really groovy guy in my chemistry class is driving me out of my gourd. I first noticed him when I caught him staring at me. He never spoke a word-- just stared. I found out from kids who knew him that he has always been shy, so I decided to make the first move. I wrote a note and asked him if I reminded him of somebody. No reply. Just more staring.

I thought maybe he considered it a stupid question and I was ashamed of myself for writing that note so I heard his birthday was the following week, and I sent him a birthday card and wrote a few lines. No reply.

Yesterday I saw him staring at me again and decided to keep my eyeballs hooked into his until he looked away. Would you believe we stared at each other for a full 60 seconds? Finally, my eyes began to water and I had to turn away.

How can I find out his true feelings for me? Why would a guy stare at a girl for six months if he didn't dig her? Should I ask him or what? What should my next move be?--- Sick Of Games

Dear S.O.G.: You've already made two moves and the net result has been zero. My advice is to write him off. If he wants to get to know you he'll stop staring and start talking.

Dear Ann Landers: "Beantown Readers" is right. Some husbands think their wives should have a baby every year and I cheered when you trimmed the sails of those egomaniacal males who equate large families with virility.

I've had four children and six miscarriages in ten years. Every time my Romeo husband has an affair he decides I should have another baby to square himself with the Lord. How do you explain an inconsiderate, guilt- ridden nut like him?--- Fertile Myrtle

Dear F.M.: I don't have to explain him. You did. He is inconsiderate, guilt- ridden and nuts.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious-- lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key To Popularity." Send 35c in coing with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to this newspaper.

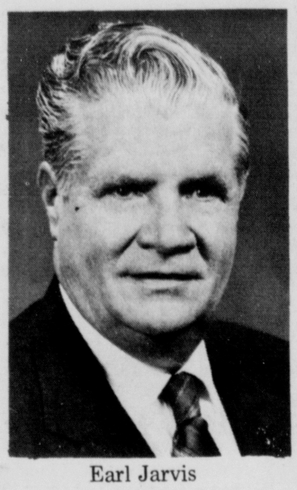
Jarvis heads Heart Fund business drive

Earl Jarvis, 18 Green Meadows, has been selected to head the 1973 business drive for the Heart Fund, according to Mrs. Robert Turnbull, community chairman.



Earl Jarvis

The theme of this year's campaign is "Beat the Big One-- Heart Attack". During the Sikeston Heart Fund Campaign this month, area firms will be asked to cooperate in the fight to reduce the toll of heart and blood vessel diseases and distribute heart- saving information in their personnel.

Jarvis is a past president of the Southeast Missouri Council of Boy Scouts of America and is a member of the board of directors of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

"Heart and blood vessel diseases this year will cost American business and industry about 52 million man-days of production," Jarvis said.

Brain dysfunctions family of problems

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Every child diagnosed as having minimal brain dysfunction is different and must be considered as an individual, according to Dr. John E. Peters, an Arkansas child psychiatrist.

Minimal brain dysfunction (MBD) is a family of diagnoses rather than a single entity, Dr. Peters recently told an audience of physicians in private practice. The three groups into which he divides the problem are the child with pure hyperactivity, the one with pure learning disability and the mixed types who have both.

Mixed and hyperactive children have in common short attention span, distractability and impulsivity. The two pure types are relatively few in number. The largest number of MBD children fall into the mixed category.

Dr. Peters is head of the division of child and adolescent psychiatry at the University of Arkansas school of medicine.

He said that most children are diagnosed as having MBD and their parents are seen at least initially by a physician in private practice.

"In every group of 100 school children, there are likely to be 5 to 10 who have a learning disability or are so hyperactive they require special help. The physician has an important role in helping to identify and manage these children to prevent psychiatric maladjustments and to increase the child's chances for a productive life," Dr. Peters said.

Unstable emotions, mercurial behavior, poor motor integration, space movement perception deficit and disorders in language processing are also characteristic of MBD children.

The seminar on diagnosis and management of the child with MBD was sponsored as part of a medical horizons program by CIBA Pharmaceutical Co.

Tradition still rules

TOKYO (AP) — Kiyoko Sato, 23, wasn't as happy as a bride-to-be should be as her wedding day approached. The reason: parental insistence that she and Keiichi Nakajima, her 24-year-old fiance, don formal kimono and go through a traditional Shinto wedding ceremony.

The young couple said all they wanted was a small, western style wedding with only a few of their close friends as guests, not a big "two-family" affair.

Although Kiyoko and Keiichi have been courting for five years, the fiance had to take his parents and a matchmaker to Kiyoko's home a few months ago to give her an engagement ring and 300,000 yen (about 1,000 dollars). Kiyoko termed that another compromise with old fashioned wedding ways.

Bunji Ioki, a marriage counsellor-researcher in Tokyo, said about 80 per cent of the one million couples expected to marry in Japan this year will have chosen their mates on the basis of their own feelings rather than through the old matchmaker system.

SHS matmen ready for regional

Grapplers representing at least three Southeast Missouri wrestling squads will travel to their respective state regional sites Friday to wrestle for top two berths in each weight division and earn the right to advance to state competition next weekend in Columbia.

Matmen from Cape Central and Sikeston will be attending the class 'L' regionals at Horton Watkins High School at Ladue of St. Louis while wrestlers from Ste. Genevieve, Dexter, and Jackson will be attending the class 'M-S' regionals at Maplewood high school in Maplewood of St. Louis.

Coach John Heacox' Sikeston High School crew will be sending four young men to Ladue by virtue of either third or fourth place finishes in district competition last weekend at Fox high school in Arnold.

Finishing third in district last weekend was freshman Scott Hutchison. Wrestling in the 112- pound division, Hutchison holds a 16-2 record at present and was voted the 'outstanding freshman wrestler' by squad members this week.

Fourth place finishers in districts last weekend were 105- pounder Tom Bridger, 119- pounder Jim Huff, and 132- pounder Bill Lewis.

Bridger held the distinction of being the Bulldogs' only undefeated matman in regular season competion. As a sophomore, Bridger has a 15-2 record, including district, and also has a two years of wrestling remaining under mentor Heacox.

Huff and Lewis, juniors at SHS, hold respective records of 9-5 and 15-4 going into this weekend's activities and, along with Coach Heacox, are already looking forward to next season very optimistically.

Cape Girardeau Central will send three representatives to Ladue this weekend. They are Rick East, wrestling in the 145-pound division; Ray Dowell, wrestling in the 155- pound division; and heavyweight Jerry Reubel. Both East and Dowell placed fourth in their respective divisions while Reubel finished second in his weight class.

Coach Paul Webber's Jackson Indians took seven individual titles and two other finishes to total nine grapplers that will be attending the class 'M-S' regional tournament at Maplewood Friday. They are 98- pounder L. G. Loos, 119-pounder Bruce Hoffman, 126- pounder John Wilson, 132- pounder David Ramsey, 138- pounder Rick Meyer, 145- pounder Clint Collier, 155-pounder James Welker, 167-pounder Bruce Winderknecht and heavyweight John Goodson.

Representatives from the Dexter Bearcats and Ste. Genevieve Dragons will alsc be attending the Maplewood affair, but names of the individual wrestlers were not available.

Spartans drop one to Irish

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan State's basketball team spent a week in South Bend Wednesday night.

At least it must have seemed that way after a long, long night with Notre Dame.

"We played a horrible game," said Michigan State Coach Gus Ganakas after dropping an 85-72 decision to the Fighting Irish. "As the second half wore on, we became more disorganized and they got stronger through organization."

The "organization" to which Ganakas referred was Notre Dame's tough zone defense. It no doubt looked like the Twilight Zone to Michigan State's lost Spartans.

"Our zone at the end of the game won it for us," said Notre Dame Coach Dick "Digger" Phelps. "When we started to stall with about three minutes to play, we were up by six points. And after that, we just pulled away."

In other games Wednesday night, No. 3 Long Beach State walloped San Diego State 97-76; 12th-ranked Providence defeated St. Joseph's, Pa., 81-75 and No. 17 San Francisco beat Santa Clara 78-69.

Michigan State had a 35-34 lead over Notre Dame at the half, but buckled under a second-half assault led by the Fighting Irish's Gary Novak. He scored 18 of his 24 points in the last stanza.

Nate Stephens scored 24 points for a season high and Ed Ratleff fired in 23 to pace Long Beach's victory; Providence won behind Ernie DiGregorio's 26 points and San Francisco walloped Santa Clara as Phil Smith and Mike Quick each scored 19 points.

Elsewhere, Fairfield beat St. Bonaventure 72-60; Penn State turned back Temple 64-49; Sam Houston State, the nation's No. 1-ranked college division team, topped fourth-ranked Stephen F. Austin 81-67; West Virginia nipped Rutgers 71-68; Marshall defeated Miami 68-59; La Salle blasted Canisius 97-85. Kent State trimmed Pitt 74-68 and Duke smashed Wake Foresst 84-71.

Kings take Bucks

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "A routine win," said Kings Manager Bob Cousy, tongue-incheek, of the Kansas CityOmaha 105-98 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks in a National Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

The last time the franchise notched a victory over Milwaukee was Dec. 19, 1970 in Cincinnati when it was called the Royals. "It seems like it has been since 1865," said Cousy.

Nate Archibald scored 39 points and had nine assists, Sam Lacey tallied 18 points and 12 rebounds and Johnny Green supplied the spark late in the game before the largest professional basketball crowd in Kansas City — 10,242.

Green "will give you the dry heaves then he'll jump 18 feet for a rebound and steal the ball," said Cousy of the 39year-old veteran from Michigan State who has been in the NBA 13 years.

With just under eight minutes left in the game Green blocked a shotand Matt Coukas made the save. Green streaked down the court and stuffed the ball through the hoop. The basket gave the Kiggs a 90-80 lead and brought the crowd to its feet.

Boston wins in overtime

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Havlicek came back Wednesday night and he couldn't have picked a more opportune time.

Havlicek, returning to action after missing two games because of an inflamed knee tendon, hit a turnaround jump shot with two seconds left in overtime to clinch a 103-102 victory for the Boston Celtics over the Los Angeles Lakers in a National Basketball Association contest.

Havlicek came through as the 24-second buzzer sounded after Boston had the ball with 26 seconds left and called time with nine seconds to go. The Lakers had closed to within a point as Gail Goodrich hit a jump shot and added a free throw with 26 seconds to go. The Celtics let Wilt Chamberlain score unimpeded as the buzzer sounded ending the game.

In other NBA action, Detroit beat Phoenxi 113-107, Baltimore crushed Atlanta 137-108 and Kansas City-Omaha upset Milwaukee 105-98. There were no games scheduled in the American Basketball Association.

Dave Cowens led the Celtics with 34 points, while Havlicek added 30. Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 35, followed by Jerry West with 26.

Elgin Hayes scored 28 points and grabbed 15 rebounds in leading the Baltimore Bullets over the Atlanta Hawks.

Phil Chenier added 27 points for the Bullets, who led by 37 points at one point in the fourth period.

The Detroit Pistons won their fifth straight game over the Phoenix Suns and it marked the first time in two years the Pistons had won more than three in a row.

Bob Lanier led the Pistons with 26 points and 14 rebounds while Dave Bing added 22.

Charlie Scott and Dick Van Arsdale each scored 21 points for the Suns.

Abernathy on waivers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ted Abernathy, submarine pitcher and oldest baseball player in the American League, has been placed on waivers for the purpose of unconditional release, the Kansas City Royals announced today.

Abernathy, who will be 40 next month, was the Royals' top right-handed relief pitcher most of the time in Kansas City but dropped off last season.

Abernathy "did an outstanding job," said Cedric Tallis, Royals general manager. "But at this point, we feel Ken Wright and some other younger pitchers are ready to move into the picture.

"We feel that making the move now, Abernathy will have a better chance of landing with another team," he said. "He is one of the finest individuals we have ever had."

Abernathy had a 16-13 record in two and a half years at Kansas City to boost his 14-year major league record to 62-69. His lifetime earned run average is 3.47.

Olympics plan shakeup

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Arthur Lentz, $30,000-ayear executive director, is slated to be the main victim of a shakeup this weekend in the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The former University of Wisconsin publicist, administrative head of the USOC since 1966, will be replaced by his present assistant director, Col. Don Miller, a source close to the situation told the Associateed Press today.

Philip O. Krumm, the incoming president, declined to discuss the report other than to say: "There will be some important changes in our organization—yes, they will affect Olympic House. But I can't reveal them for a couple of days."

Krumm is a 66-year-old former sales representative from Kenosha, Wis., who succeeds Clifford Buck of Denver, a retired sporting goods executive, as USOC president in the organization's darkest hour.

Around 150 delegates poured into this fashionable winter resort today to attempt to regrid America's greatest amateur sports body, already deserted by major colleges and under heavy fire from Congress and a militant, college-backed group known as The Committee for a Better Olympics.

Missing were delegates from the powerful National Collegiate Athletic Association and 37 individual conferences, making a total absentee list of about 125. The NCAA withdrew its support shortly before the ill-starred Munich Olympics, calling for a complete overhaul of the USOC structure.

Lentz, who could not be reached immediately for comment, reportedly had hoped for a four-year renewal of his contract, which has another year to run.

If Lentz goes, so may other top administrative officials, excepting Col. Miller.

Prior to today's meeting, at which he will officially take office, Krumm made it plain that he planned broad and decisive measures intended to restore the USOC's tattered image.

"We will study all the criticisms and examine them one by one," he added. "We will bring outstanding athletes—old stars and present ones—into our policy making. We intend to rectify whatever mistakes we have made in the past."

One of the main criticisms has been that the USOC is run by a group of self-perpetuating "old fogeys" with small regard for the welfare of the athletes.

Nicklans shoots 64

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus said the putting greens were rough, joking, "I couldn't hardly get a thing in."

He smiled broadly as he told how close he came to losing his ball in the rough.

Despite such "misfortune," professional golf's premier performer blistered the Indian Wells Country Club course Wednesday with a first-round 64—eight under par—in the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Two strokes behind were veteran Gay Brewer and two tour non-winners, Bob Barbarossa and George Johnson. Another stroke back at 67 were Charles Coody, the 1971 Masters champion, Canadian Ben Kern and two-year pro Dwight Nevil.

The newly planted, frostburned greens at Indian Wells were "probably the roughest" of any in this four-course, 90-hole marathon in which pros team with amateurs for the first 72 holes, Nicklaus said.

Yet the Golden Bear from Columbus, Ohio, required only 28 putts, three of them from 30 feet for a lone bogey. He had an eagle three on the 468-yard 14th hole with a 25-foot putt.

On the 18th tee, his shot went to the right into foot-high rye grass.

He used a seven iron to escape the rough and parred the hole.

Sam Houston State No. 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sam Houston State remains No. 1 in the Associated Press College Division poll and the distinction is driving their fans into a frenzy.

The Bearkats, winners of 17 games this season through last Saturday and 23 in a row over a two-season span, easily outdistanced runner-up Augustana, Ill., accumulating 13 of 15 firstplace votes and 278 points.

Coach Archie Porter of Sam Houston State is a happy man. "We're delighted to be the top dog. I think the top rating has helped our confidence".

Augustana, 18-1, received one first-place vote in the voting by a national panel of sports broadcasters and writers, and advanced from third place to second with 222 points.

Stepehen F. Austin, 18-2, garnered the other No. 1 vote and climbed from fourth to third with 206 points.

Assumption, Mass., 13-1, jumped two places to fourth. Philadelphia Textile, 17-1, leaped from 10th to fifth. Roanoke, 14-4, advanced one position to sixth. Louisiana Tech, 15-3, dropped two spots to seventh. Wisconsin-Eau Claire, 13-3, plunged six places to eighth. Kentucky State, 15-3, held ninth, and Wisconsin-Milwaukee, 16-3, slipped from eighth to tenth.

Boxing principal flunks

MIAMI (AP) — Dr. Von N. Beebe, a grade school principal who wanted to see what it was like to be hit, has flunked his first Golden Gloves boxing test.

"I smelled the sweat and felt what it was like, so I have no regrets," said the 32-year-old Beebe through a bleeding lip. "It was an experience, believe me. But I learned something."

Beebe, principal of Leroy D. Fienberg Elementary School of Miami Beach, suffered a pounding and then lost on a second-round technical knockout to Ken Ryals in the 160-pound, subnovice class (five bouts or less) of the Florida Golden Gloves tournament Wednesday night. It was Beebe's first bout.

Ryals caught the long-haired Beebe with a short left seconds after the start of the match, sending the educator sprawling on the seat of his red trunks.

"The other guy was better. He knew how to hit, and I couldn't protect myself. I was getting hit because my hands were too low," the former Bronxville, N.Y., man said.

But Beebe said he felt he succeeded because "I got the taste of defeat and that's something .... You learn something."

Will Beebe continue boxing?

"Certainly, but I wouldn't want to do it all the time," he said. "I feel good and I have no regrets."

FOOTBALL

NEW YORK — Art MacNally, former National Football League referee and head of the National Football Conference officiating program since 1970, has been promoted to supervisor of officials for the entire league.

Advance Bs advance

ZALMA — The Zalma Invitational Basketball Tourney resumed action Wednesday night with Advance's B-team taking an expected win over St. Vincent 65-47 in the first game and Marquand upsetting Leopold 56-48.

The Advance B-team came into the game with a fourth-ranked seeding despite playing in varsity action. St. Vincent had trouble connecting with their shots and the Hornets held them to a mere four points, picking up the first quarter advantage with a 16-4 edge. Advance continued their shooting during the second quarter with St. Vincent coming off somewhat better, but the Hornets still held a decisive lead at half, 32-16.

In the third frame, St. Vincent could not pull within reach of the lead. Advance kept a steady pace and was able to hold off for a win.

Marquand, seeded fourth, pulled off an upset over third seeded Leopold, moving away from the Wildcats during the third frame to capture the win.

Action was slow during the start of the game. Both teams ran into cold shooting and could only manage six points apiece. By the second frame, both teams began hitting and Marquand slipped into the lead at half with a 21-19 edge.

Coming back from intermission, cold shooting once again plagued Leopold while Marquand was able to run up 16 markers. In the final quarter, the Wildcats hit for 21 points but the rally was not enough to come up with the win.

Dave Cox and Steve Masters led scoring for Marquand with 23 and 10 points respectively. David Nenninger was high man for Leopold with 15 markers and Mark Eftink pumped in 13.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's professional golfers have voted in favor of sticking with the American-style big ball and they want officials of the big European tournaments to do the same.

The pros decided by a vote of 115-88 to use the 1.68 inch ball, which has been used experimentally in Britain for five years. The old-style British ball was 1.64 inches in diameter.

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys will meet world champion Miami in Texas Stadium on Saturday night, Sept. 8, it was announced by the Cowboys Wednesday.

The game will conclude the National Football League's preseason schedule for both teams. Dallas and the Dolphins also will have a regular season game, the site and date to be announced in the spring.

The better the lawn food, the better your lawn

TURF BUILDER is the lawn food we recommend most for early spring fertilizing. It releases its nutrients over a prolonged period. So there's no excess surge growth to cause extra mowing and no wasteful leaching away of the nutrients. Instead, TURF BUILDER produces a thicker, greener, sturdier lawn. Lasts longer too, because it's Trionized.

AP Newsfeatures

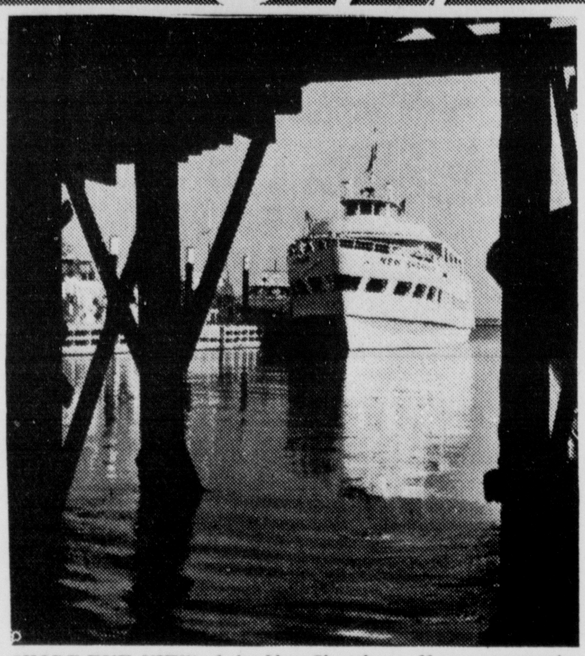
Looking over our photographic adventures of 1972, the trip that my wife and I took aboard the M/V (Motor Vessel) New Shoreham on the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterways from New York to St. Petersburg, Fla., comes to the forefront first.

That's because of the unique nature of the trip itself . . . the people we met . . . and it's the most recent one.

1. The cruise south along the inland waters of the Atlantic coast is leisurely enough — at 10 miles-per-hour — for close-up, waterside views of historic port cities and land steeped in the saga of our continent's beginnings and the heritage of our nation's formative years.

2. The trip seems to appeal to — and attract — interesting, friendly, adventurous people who value and appreciate an offbeat experience in good company and who don't mind the compact quarters of a small cabin.

3. Since it was our last trip of last year, its pictorial reminders are still at hand and very much in evidence.



SHORE-EYE VIEW of the New Shoreham, 60-passenger minicruise ship, is framed by pier timbers at Thunderbolt Marina, Ga. It's one of the pictorial memories of the two-week trip from Warren, R.I., on the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway which ended at St. Petersburg, Fla.

The New Shoreham, a 60-passenger minicruise ship, and its smaller sister vessel, the 42-passenger Mt. Hope, were designed and built by Capt. Luther Blount in their home port of Warren, R.I. They spend the summers on short cruises on the inland waters of the East Coast's northern area. About mid-November each year, they shift their base from North to South for the winter cruise season, using St. Petersburg as operating headquarters. In May, the call of the North is heard again and the two ships retrace their routes on the Intracoastal waters back to their Warren, R.I., home port.

But let's go back aboard the New Shoreham and the start of our two-week trip South. The ship, passengers and crew of 13 had started a day earlier when it sailed from its Warren dock. But eight passengers, including my wife and myself, found it more convenient to board in New York City. It was a cold rainy noontime when we found her at the Seaport Museum pier, a tiny craft alongside lower Manhattan's giant skyscrapers. With luggage aboard, picture taking started.

On any boat, a wide-angle and a telephoto lens are useful accessories for serious camera fans. With the wide-angle, you get more compact groups and scenes without backing off the boat while the tele lens will bring scenes, birds and activities closer and bigger when you can't go closer. A haze filter is handy to keep spray off the lens and a polaroid filter produces glare-free, sparkling water scenes.

If you have a compulsive trigger finger like mine — shooting away at every picture possibility — be sure to increase your film supply estimate. My "generous allowance" on this trip wasn't enough and, as I've often warned previously, there aren't any convenient camera stores along some travel routes. Fortunately, a shipmate friend was able to spare a roll of film toward the end of the trip to complete my black-and-white record in 2 1/4 x 2 1/4 size. Another camera making a 35mm slide story of our experiences was adequately supplied.

The voyage taught me a lot about our Eastern coastline. The Intracoastal Waterway is a long continuous string of rivers, sounds, lakes and bays connected by man-made canals. Together they form a system of sheltered inland channels for marine travel extending about 1,400 miles between Trenton, N.J., on the Delaware River, and Miami. As the nation's first "road," this water highway carried the people, merchandise, animals and tools that settled and developed the East Coast. Along the route, changes are barely discernible in some of the towns and many cities have preserved or rebuilt early relics and shrines with historical accuracy so that a trip down the waterway is often a trip backward in time.

The New Shoreham's scheduled stop each day, subject of course to the whims of weather, provided an opportunity for on-shore sight-seeing along the way. There is now space only for two examples of educational sightseeing and picture taking:

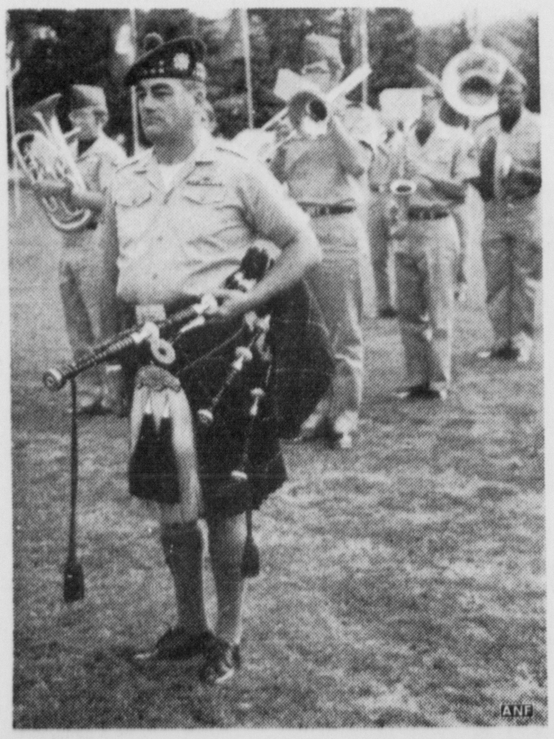
One of the first stops was at Annapolis and we were just a minutes-away walk from its center. It's a Colonial landmark city whose State House is the oldest state capitol in continuous legislative use and the site of the nation's first free school, King Williams, established in 1696. It has narrow streets with sidewalks of worn red bricks in herringbone pattern which once heard the tapping of gold-topped canes of Colonial governors. It is the home of U.S. Naval traditions and of two signers of the Declaration of Independence, William Paca and Charles Carroll. The latter is the only one to add his address on the historic document. In this city, too, the Treaty of Paris was signed which established the United States as a sovereign nation.

Toward the end of our trip, our stop at St. Augustine, Fla., left almost a whole day for sightseeing. A short stroll from the dock led to an old Spanish quarter whose narrow streets and quaint shops had Old World charm. An open auto-train, with stop-and-go privileges, took us to the historical area which has been preserved as the oldest continuous settlement in the U.S., founded by Spanish admiral Pedro de Aviles in 1565. We saw and photographed the oldest wooden schoolhouse and Castillo de San Marcos, the oldest masonry fort, begun by the Spanish in 1672.

These and other sights are the basis for this thought by the St. Augustine Historical Society: "History doesn't happen between the covers of books . . . it is merely recorded there. History happens to people — and it happens on the land. Seeing where history happened makes it more intimate and meaningful to us."

And when we photograph these sights, we are recording personal views of history for ourselves.

Other experiences of our trip South will follow in future columns.



SCOTCH MUSIC IS HIS BAG—S/Sgt. Jack Donalson, sporting bagpipes and a kilt of the clan Donalson, brings the sound of the Highlands to Ft. Lewis, Wash., and the 9th Infantry Division Band. A native of San Francisco, Sergeant Donalson made his debut at a ceremony honoring Lt. Gen. Alexander D. Surles Jr., retiring Sixth Army Commander. (U.S. Army photo by T. Matsuo)

Did you know that the tallest known races in the world are the Tutsi (also called Batutsi, Watutsi, or Watusi), Nilotic herdsmen of Rwanda and Burundi, Central Africa, and the Nuer of the White Nile region of the Sudan, whose males average over 5 feet 11 inches.

The world's smallest known race is the negrito Onge tribe of whom fewer than 500 survive on Little Andaman Island in the Indian Ocean. Few exceed 4 feet 6 inches. The smallest pygmies are the Bambuti, with an average height of 4 feet 8 inches for men and 4 feet 4 inches for women. They live in the forests near the river Ituri in the Congo (Leopoldville), Africa.

Size isn't everything. You can install a water refiner anywhere in your home in a space only 18 by 20 inches and it does the job of 4 other separate units. It clarifies, softens, filters and polishes, to give you and your family sparkling, clear, refreshing water. When you need a refining appliance, insist on the best, see us at

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The House Insurance Committee heard testimony Wednesday night from insurance spokesmen who said compulsory auto insurance does not work and three bills to require it in Missouri should be defeated.

The bills are similar in requiring proof of auto insurance to obtain vehicle registration.

The committee also heard testimony on three bills to regulate health service plans in Missouri, primarily Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

Gus Lehr of MFA Insurance Co., said about 15 per cent of Missouri's 2.5 million licensed vehicles are uninsured, amounting to about 375,000 vehicles. He said in Massachusetts, New York and North Carolina, which have compulsory auto insurance, "it breaks down."

Lehr said some drivers drop thei insurance and the paperwork to keep tabs on coverage becomes burdensome. He said compulsory would increase rates.

But when questioned by the committee, he said costs for coverage to protect against uninsured motorists would decrease.

"It just doesn't work," said Henry Andrae, speaking for the American Insurance Association. He said legislators who think it will eliminate problems of uninsured motorists "ought to have their heads examined."

Andrae said the present system of having motorists pay for additional coverage to protect against uninsured drivers "is not an intolerable burden."

But the sponsor of one bill disagreed. Rep. William Raisch, R-Affton, said "the responsibilities for driving should be shared among all drivers," and that it is unfair to let some motorists off the hook on getting auto insurance and have others pay for their damages. He said he didn't believe insurance costs would raise because of compulsory insurance.

Raisch also said he did not believe his bill would fully eliminate uninsured motorists. But it would reduce the number by making them get insurance each time their license came up for renewal, while now they operate vehicles indefinitely without insurance coverage.

The committee deferred action on the bills until it can get more information, such as the estimated cost of administering such a program and how much damage is done by uninsured drivers.

"We've allowed this company (Blue Cross-Blue Shield) to grow so large we don't know what to do with them," said Rep. Harold Lowenstein, R-Kansas City, sponsor of one bill. "It wouldn't hurt anybody to make them open to public scrutiny."

Rep. James Muvaney, D-Jennings, sponsor of another bill, said "we need a strong law to protect the insurance-buying public. Where does the public go when they feel something is unjust."

A spokesman for the Blue Cross lan of St. Louis, attorney Robert Schlafly, said, "we are not opposed to regulation." He then gave the committee the company's own version of a regulation bill. He said more than 95 per cent of the income received by Blue Cross of St. Louis is paid out in benefits.

Takes amendment to drop stickers

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Rep. Larry Mead says the only way to eliminate the black sticker on paper ballots in Missouri is by a Constitutional Amendment.

Mead, a Republican from Columbia, said Wednesday after a House Election Committee meeting, he will introduce a joint House resolution next week to submit to the voters a Constitutional Amendment that would eliminate the black stickers.

The black path is used to cover up the number, to insure a voter's ballot will be kept secret. All but six of Missouri's 114 counties use paper ballots.

James F. Dowd III, general counsel for the Secretary of State, said the Constitution requires ballots be numbered and also requires they be secret.

Mead's resolution would eliminate the numbering so a black patch would not be needed.

Both Mead and Dowd said Missouri is the only state with the black patch requirement.

"The black patch becomes a red herring," Dowd said. "What they really want to eliminate is the numbering."

A bill co-sponsored by Mead and Rep. James R. Strong, R-Jefferson City, to eliminate them on mechanical ballots, was passed over for testimony in the committee hearing.

What's the Law?

The case of the sneak attack

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Pint- sized Peter got tired of having the "big boys" kick sand in his eyes at the beach and signed up for karate lessons at Tojo's Karate School. As it turned out, it was as perilous for Peter at the school as it had been at the beach. While dressing in the locker room after a lesson, Tojo caught him by surprise and gave him a chop across the chops.

Taking exception to the sneak attack, Peter sued Tojo for assault and battery.

"It was Parl Harbor all over agin," he told the judge. "I was a victim of a surprise attack."

In defense, Tojo explained:

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Peter to collect for assault and battery because of the alleged sneak attack?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that Tojo's blow was struck after the karate instruction had terminated and had no reasonable connection with the lesson. What's more, speculated the judge, the unprovoked assault and battery seemed more of a personal act on the part of Tojo than an instructional one.

Fix on Moon

Night-flying moths use the moon as a beacon. By keeping the lunar image at a fixed angle on the eye's retina, they can maintain fairly straight courses. When they make use of an electric lamp or a candle flame, however, moths fly in ever smaller circles until they crash into the light source.

Helpers needed to aid Emergency Care Force

MALDEN — Lynn Lancaster, assistant director of the Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council, has issued a plea for anyone interested in helping with the Emergency Care Task Force.

According to Lancaster, the council is hoping to prepare a plan of action for the development of an effective community emergency health care system for the bootheel.

The business of medicine is to prevent premature death and disability, relieve suffering and provide comfort and reassurance to the ill and the injured, said Lancaster.

Anyone who accepts this premise should give high priority to the care of patients stricken with medical emergencies, whether they are disaster victims or those struck by a variety of daily health emergencies, he added.

The development of effective community emergency health care system is one of today's most neglected areas of medical care. The indifference is hard to understand since potential benefits are most promising in the fields of emergency medical care, said Lancaster.

When one tries to express the magnitude of the emergency health care problem, annual death rates offer the only reliable data. Meaningful statistics on disability related to emergency medical care are not available. There is a prime need now for data on all aspects of emergency health care, Lancaster said.

According to Lancaster, almost two million deaths from all causes occur each year in the United States. An estimated 60,000 of these deaths could have been prevented if rescue and resuscitation methods not known were applied early to these victims.

Thus, three per cent of our annual death rate can be labeled premature because emergency medical care during the first hour or so either is lacking or insufficient when it does arrive.

Strikers halt Penn Central

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Striking trainmen shut down the Penn Central Railroad today in a last-ditch bid to keep the nation's largest railroad from cutting train crews, a cornerstone of the bankrupt line's struggle for survival. The walkout affected thousands of daily passengers and posed a threat to major industry. The Senate Labor Committee called an emergency meeting in Washington today, and a committee aide said there may be attempt to pass a resolution suspending the strike long enough for Congress to look at the strike issues. Both the Senate and House are scheduled to recess today for at least a week.

Talks between union and management representatives broke off last Friday, but they were scheduled to meet with Labor Department officials in Washington today.

If there is no negotiated settlement, only a special act of Congress can end the strike. The strike originally was called for early January but was postponed 30 days, the final legal remedy under the Railway Labor Act.

Some 300,000 daily passengers, a majority of them commuters in major Eastern and Midwestern metropolitan areas, were the first to feel the effects of the strike. Freight service also was halted in 16 states, the District of Columbia and two Canadian provinces served by the line.

"We're out of a business," a spokesman for the railroad said shortly after 28,000 conductors and brakemen walked off the job at 12:01 a.m., the deadline set by Penn Central for implementing new work rules designed to save about $100 million annually.

The strike came within 12 hours after the Nixon administration rejected a Penn Central plea for at least $600 million in federal aid.

The railroad's remaining 52,000 operating employes, represented by other unions, were notified not to report to work. They had been expected to honor the picket lines.

Foreign Affairs Committee that "over the past two weeks we can already see that the Vietnamese parties as well as others involved are working together to carry out the agreement."

However, Rogers in his prepared remarks said that the positive developments since the Jan. 27 signing "constitute only the first steps toward building peace in Indochina."

He added that massive and complex economic and political problems still must be resolved in Vietnam and he acknowledged that the conflicts in Laos and Cambodia have not been settled.

According to the secretary, the key to lasting peace involves the will of the Vietnamese parties and restraint on the part of "Hanoi's principal allies and suppliers."

He indicated that the Soviet Union and China's participation in an international conference later this month to underwrite a Vietnam settlement constitutes "a significant first step ... to help make it endure, and to promote the transition to lasting peace."

informal calendar, which means he can bring it up for debate at any time. The bill still has to go through votes— one to have it prepared for final consideration and then one for passage.

Weight limits now are 18,000 pounds on one axle, 32,000 pounds on two axles and 72,000 pounds in gross weight, on the interstate highways as well as Missouri's primary and supplementary roads.

Young's bill would increase the limits to 20,000, 34,000 and 90,000.

A bill designed to eliminate political patronage in motor vehicle license fee offices met opposition Wednesday afternoon in the House Roads and Highway Committee.

McMullin when she put the gun to her head and shot herself. He said the argument started because she wanted him to return to California, Sheriff John Dennis reported.

Scott County Coroner Gene Nunnelee said the woman died of a .25- caliber bullet which entered her head two and one- half inches behind and one inch above the left ear. The bullet crossed downward through the brain at a 15- degree angle and came to rest behind the right eye.

A coroner's jury was impaneled at 1 p.m. Wednesday to view the body, Nunnelee said.

An inquest into the death is tentatively scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday.

Kaiser was employed by Robinson Wholesale Building Supply Company, 513 E. Malone, until recently when he was laid off.

Miss Alvarez had joined Kaiser in Sikeston in December. She is a native of California.

The couple reportedly has one child, whose age was not disclosed.

The body was removed to Nunnelee Funeral Chapel where arrangements are incomplete.

New vaccine prepared to fight future flu

PARIS (AP)—The Pasteur Institute says it has developed a vaccine against all types of influenza that are expected to develop in the next five years.

Prof. Claude Hannoun, head of the institute's ecology unit, said Tuesday that Previous flu vaccines have been developed only after each new type of virus appeared. But by transforming the virus into all the forms it is expected to take between now and 1978, he said the institute's doctors formulated a vaccine against all of them.

Hannoun said the vaccine also is effective against the types of flu that developed from the 1969 "Hong Kong" virus. He said the vaccine is in production and will become available generally as soon as the government approves.

The vaccine resulted from a process in which forms of flu virus yet to come were artificially created in the laboratory, Hannoun said.

Hannoun explained that flu virus undergoes a basic change about once every 10 years. Within this 10-year span, it undergoes variations, that regularly defeat existing flu vaccines.

The Pasteur Institute took the basic 1969 Hong Kong strain of virus, fought it with antibodies that forced it to undergo variations, and isolated the ultimate stage of variation.

The ultimate stage of variation — expected five years from now in real life — is a state in which it is chemically impossible for the virus to change. It then undergoes a mutation into a new form, and the process begins again.

Eagleton urges study on aging

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., Tuesday introduced a bill to establish a National Institute on Aging for expansion of biological and behavioral research in the aging process.

In a statement accompanying the bill, Eagleton said the bill is similar to the one vetoed, except it does not include mental health provisions.

The chairman of the subcommittee on aging said the President cited the mental health provisions in the previous bill as one of his reasons for its veto.

"Basic research into the process of aging has now reached a point where major breakthroughs are possible. There remain, however, critical questions yet to be answered," Eagleton said.

He added that aging "underlies our increased susceptibility with advancing years to cancer, heart attacks and degenerative diseases."

While there are 20 million Americans aged 65 or over, "the amount expressly devoted to aging research in the National Institutes of Health represents only about one-tenth of one per cent of federal expenditures in health programs for the elderly," Eagleton said.

This contrasts with "as much as two-thirds of our total expenditures for health care ... attributed to treating older persons," he said.

17 Exam fund set for gynecological tests

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Students Association has alloted $4,000 so that women students at the University of Missouri-Columbia can have a free gynecological examination and possibly prescriptions for contraceptives.

The Association of Women Students had demanded the campus student health clinic hire a full-time gynecologist for free care. In the past students have had to pay $12 or more tor such examinations.

Thelen said he thought contraceptives were behind the call for a full-time gynecologist. Such help, he said, would cost the university $40,000 to $50,000.

Dr. William Griffin, director of the medical enter gynecology department, and Nancy Heinrich, an AWS official, said the demands were motivated more by a need for a specialist.

Griffin said he doubted his staff of eight doctors will be swamped with patients. The "demand will not be as great as some people think," he said.

Malden sign-up Friday for OJT

MALDEN — Seasonal and migrant farm workers in the Malden area will be given an opportunity to sign up for on-the- job training courses when OJT staff members visit the city Friday for a one- day recruitment effort.

Th T program, being offered by the Missouri Delta Community Corporation, is open to seasonal and migrant farm workers in Dunklin, Pemiscot and Butler counties. The project is sponsored by Missouri Delta Ecumenical Ministry, which has a contract with Rural Missouri, Inc., for OJT courses in the three-county area.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Maeretha Hadley at Hayti, telephone number 359-1718.

Search starts for SeMo Psychiatrist

KENNETT — Officials of the Missouri Division of Mental Health said Wednesday they would begin recruiting a psychiatrist for the Southeast Missouri Mental Health Center in Kennett. The announcement follows disclosure of the employment of a director for the mental health facility which has been built at Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

Dr. George Ulett, chairman of the Missouri Institute for Psychiatry at St. Louis, said the full facilities of the state's research and training unit would be utilized in an effort to secure a fulltime psychiatrist for the Bootheel mental health center.

Dr. Ulett, former director of the state agency and now heading its research and training unit, said the task of recruiting a psychiatrist for the Bootheel center has become more difficult in recent months because of a reduced number of residents in training at MIP. He said the delay in opening the mental health facility here, originally scheduled to begin operations last September, coincided with an acute shortage of residents at MIP.

Operations of the unit in St. Louis have only recently been reduced because of the smaller number of physicians entering the psychiatric field.

The federal staffing grant for the CMH in Kennett calls for the employment of one full- time psychiatrist and additional psychiatric assistance as required.

Dr. Ulett said he knew of only one or perhaps two possibilities at this time to fill the psychiatric slot at the Bootheel community mental health facility here.

Wednesday, officials at Dunklin county Memorial Hospital announced the employment of Dale Christian, a psychiatric social worker at Farmington State Hospital, as director of the CMH unit here. Christian will begin his duties here in March.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's Corrections Department is using a 1970 law to transfer troublesome prisoners to other states, with a handful already sent to Missouri institutions.

Transportation meeting is tonight at Malden

MALDEN— A meeting to discuss the possibilities of establishing a public transportation system for Malden will be held tonight at the community building and DAEOC center. The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m.

The meeting has been set to report findings of a public transportation study compiled by the Malden Chamber of Commerce and Miss Ceely Ackerman, area VISTA Volunteer Worker.

The paper work on the study was begun several months ago after the Chamber received numerous requests from local citizens and business firms about securing a public transportation system for Malden. Letters were written to government agencies inquiring about financial support; and successful operating bus systems were contacted to gain information relative to their operations. A report on the findings of these two aspects is included in the study to be given.

The meeting is open to all residents of Malden and surrounding sub- divisions, and all interested persons are urged to attend. Persons attending will be asked to express their views on whether or not a public transportation system is needed for Malden, and if so, what type of system would best serve the needs of the community. Those opposed to the system will have an opportunity to state their opposition.

The meeting will inform residents of the groundwork that has already been set up to establish a public transportation system in Malden; and will brief residents on the involvement of a technical assistant specializing in transportation, who has set up successful transportation systems throughout the country.

Sickle cell anemia discussion Monday

MALDEN — An educational discussion on sickle cell anemia will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the community building, formerly the General Baptist Church.

Sickle cell anemia and sickle cell traits are conditions that affect 10 per cent of the black population. This condition is also found in a small segment of the white population.

Slides on sickle cell anemia will be shown and basic information about sickle cell anemia will be presented by local citizens who have attended sickle cell anemia training workshops at the Sickle Cell Center in Memphis.

Dr. William Morehead will answer questions.
